

Dunkin' With Dunc

Windhorn May Go To A's In N.Y. Deal

By ARNOTT DUNCAN

TWO SEASONS ago Gordie Windhorn of Phoenix led the Pacific Coast League's San Francisco club in batting with a mark just over .300. This year he's leading not only the Denver Bears but the American Association with an average around the .335 mark. Windhorn originally signed as a player with fine potentials of speed and coordination, but with little actual experience because track used up most of the spring baseball season.

He's learned to hit against professionals all the way and now seems to have proved he can connect often, if not with sensational power. Windy, himself, attributes his fine year to Manager Andy Cohen's confidence in him, the fact that he's playing regularly in the outfield, and the resulting confidence he's gained. He writes he's been following Phoenix's Triple A entry with interest and is happy over the success.

Manager Harry Craft of Kansas City is to get his pick of one of three Yankees at the end of the season as payment in the Murry Dickson deal. Yankee farmhand Windhorn may well be one of the prospects. If so, it would expedite his arrival in the major leagues.

* * *

TOM McNULTY, ANOTHER Phoenician in the K.C. system, has spent most of the summer in the American League city getting over an elbow operation. He had 10 bone chips removed. The Athletics' willingness to pay for the operation and loss of nearly a full season indicates they like his chances too. . .

Fresno is supposed to have a night for Dick Coleman tonight. He's played three infield positions, catcher, and the outfield for the Class C. Giants team in the California League and is hitting just under .300 with plenty of extra-base hits in his output. Tommy Wright, Jerry Robinson, and Royce Youree also are with the Fresno club. . .

* * *