

City.

Then when the two starters departed, the same two relievers came on. Charlie Bicknell, who won for the Crackers in New Orleans, lost due to the unearned run in the 11th Monday. And Les Phillips, the loser before, was the winner.

Like the Crackers, the Pels weren't having any luck with their bats, so they squeezed across the winning run in the 11th.

With the bases loaded, manager Andy Cohen flashed dumpy Earl Weaver the squeeze sign, and the infielder responded with a deft bunt down the third base line. By the time Bob Boring fielded the ball, John Powers had streaked home with the winning run.

Powers had opened the inning with a single for the Pels' fourth and final hit. Dave Jacobs then bunted to the right side and Bill Gabler, with a chance to make the play at second, juggled the ball before making it at first.
Since base umpire Bob Ross insisted that Jacobs was safe at first, it went for an error and eventually led to an unearned run.

Continuing to bunt the Crackers dizzy, Emil Panko advanced the runners with a sacrifice, Gail Henly was purposely passed by Bicknell to load the bases, and Weaver dropped his bunt for the all-important run.
