

Paul Burris

Andy Cohen

Paul's Mittwork Draws Raves From Cohen

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 3

— New Orleans Manager Andy Cohen, a baseball man for over three decades, said Paul Burris' work behind the plate here Tuesday night was one of the finest games he's ever seen turned in by a catcher.

"I'm taking nothing away from the Atlanta pitcher (Dick Grabowski). He pitched a fine game. He mixed the speeds well but he didn't have a lot on the ball. Burris, though, made him look like a million bucks," Cohen commented prior to the New Orleans-Atlanta game Wednesday night.

"Burris called nearly a perfect game. His selection of pitches was terrific. He kept our hitters off balance the whole ball game.

"I've always said the catcher is the hub of a ball club and my hat's off to the guy for the game he worked against us."

THE CRACKERS continued to keep Emil (Mo) Pango, the Pels' young slugging sensation, in check. He was hitless in five appearances Wednesday night after one for three in the series opener. . . . The Pelicans could have avoided the misery of 15 innings had Tony Baritrome obeyed Cohen's signs in the fourth. Baritrome doubled and, running with head down, streaked for third base. But he was easy meat in a rundown. Joe Erautt followed with a single. . . . Baritrome however, is the slickest first baseman with the glove the Crackers have seen this year.

WHILE SOME baseball fans never see their mayor in the park, New Orleans Mayor Chep Morrison refused to leave his box