"The Way I See it. . ."

By Bob MacDonald

Unless Andy Cohen decides he is going to function as a good baseball coach should, the Miner baseball team is doomed to finish in the cellar of the Western Athletic Conference's Southern Division for the fourth time in five years.

Certainly this year's edition of the Miner baseball program has more talent than teams of the past. But unfortunately the talent has not been blended into a winning combination as far as WAC play is concerned.

The major gripe against Cohen is his inability to choose a three or four-man pitching rotation from his fine corps of hurlers. In case anyone is wondering, a wait of three weeks between starts is considered harmful to a pitcher.

An example is the case of Bob Knox, the sophomore hurler from Chicago. On March 30 of this year Knox pitched a perfect seven inning game against New Mexico Highlands. 15 days earlier he had shut out Denver University 7-0. Knox did not start another game until April 21 against the University of Arizona, three weeks after the finest performance of his career. Instead Cohen elected to use Knox in relief after his perfect game. Until the Wildcats scored two runs on him last Saturday he had an earned run average of 0.00.

By now I'm sure that Knox is a confused young man. He has no idea when he will pitch again. At the beginning of the season, Knox was a starter and he moved down batter after batter. Just when it seemed that he would anchor the pitching staff, he was relegated to relief duty by Cohen.

Knox is not the only one who has been mishandled by Cohen. Mike Miller has not had a start since March 26 when he beat Lubbock Christian College 4-3. Miller has started three games and completed each one. This compares with Ray Greggerson's eight starts and two complete games and Mike Hilton's seven starts and three finishes.

Yes Coach Cohen, the times they are a changing. Except for pitching rotations which have been around since Abner Doubleday made the game of baseball popular. My, we are a bit slow, aren't we?

Arizona teams beat Miner sluggers

Andy Cohen's baseball team saw their Western Athletic Conference record drop to 2-7 as Arizona State and Arizona swept two separate three games series from UT El Paso.

On April 13 and 14 the Miners traveled to Tempe and were belted by the Sun Devils 5-2, 25-3 and 9-4.

Last Friday the University of Arizona came to town and took the first game of the series 3-0. Ray Greggerson pitched 7 1/3 innings giving up three runs and was charged with the loss. Arizona pitcher Dave Bruebeck limited the Miners to four hits, three of which came off the bat of Joe Kuentsler. Mark Miller had the other hit.

The first game of Saturday's doubleheader saw the Miners and Wildcats slug it out with the 'Cats taking a 13-7 decision. UT El Paso had taken a 3-1 lead after five innings when Arizona exploded for 12 runs in the final two frames. Mike Miller was charged with the loss in relief of Bob Knox.

Saturday's second game added to the Miners frustration as Arizona's Bob Schimpf pitched a one-hitter on route to a 10-0 win.

This weekend UT El Paso plays host to Arizona State in a three game series. Friday's game starts at 2 p.m. and the first of Saturday's doubleheader begins at 1 p.m.
