

Baseball squad opens practices

Baseball practice is being held at 3:00 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at Dudley Field beginning last week. Coach Andy Cohen says it is unusual for the team to practice this late in the fall, but they will continue to do so as long as weather permits.

Although he is concentrating on fundamentals, Cohen says he plans to hold one or two scrimmage games a week to allow him to evaluate his new players.

Last year the baseball team finished the season with an 18-25 record. The coach thinks they will do much better this year because of the squad's spirit and willingness to work.

Pitching was a problem for the team last year, Cohen said, but he feels his five returning pitchers and four or five newcomers will be able to handle it this year.

When weather becomes a problem, Cohen says the afternoon sessions will stop. Formal practice starts in January.

The Miners open their season against last year's junior college champion, Ranger Junior College, in February. The first conference game is scheduled for April.
