

Downtown Newspaper Building Painting Project Under Way

The Newspaper Building at Mills and Kansas, which contains The El Paso Times, has joined the ranks of El Paso business structures sprucing up for Civic Center visitors and the many tourists expected in El Paso for the Sun Carnival and Aniversario del Paso '73.

Interior and exterior painting which has been under way for approximately three weeks will erase the ravages of the 10 years that have elapsed since the last painting.

Two El Paso firms are doing the job: Bradley Painting Co., the exterior and E. Carrizal Paint Services, the interior. Total cost of the project is approximately $20,000.

In announcing the project, Frank Feuille III, Newspaper Printing Corp. business manager, said, "The year 1973 should see the greatest influx of visitors in El Paso's history as the City celebrates the 100th anniversary of its incorporation with a series of events commencing with the 1973 Sun Carnival and cresting with Aniversario del Paso "Sun-Tennial" Festival May 10 through 19. Tens of thousands are expected to attend the historical pageant "We Sing the Song of El Paso" to be produced by the Rogers Co., featuring 1,000 El Pasoans in six performances in the Sun Bowl.

"Also a part of the celebration will be the combined Armed Forces Day and Centennial Parade on May 19. Founder's Day ceremonies will be on May 17.

"With our beautiful new Civic Center now a reality and the sparkling new, and newly remodeled buildings which have graced our Downtown area in the last couple of years, it behooves everyone throughout the City to clean up and spruce up and put our best foot forward for those who will be coming from far and near."

Andy Cohen, president of Beautify El Paso Association, upon hearing of the painting of the block-long Mills St. building, said this is just what the association is trying to promote for the City.
