

Miners, Aggies In Two Twin Bills

The first of back-to-back doubleheaders between the onrushing Texas Miners and the New Mexico State Aggies will be played in Las Cruces Friday with the two teams moving over to Dudley Field for the finale Saturday.

The twin features start at 1 p.m. both days.

With four games booked for two days, Miner drill master Andy Cohen may have to do a bit of shuffling with his pitching staff. His two aces, lefty Lynn Hunt and righthander Jesse Lujan worked Tuesday but are expected to be ready for duty during the series if Cohen needs them.

Hunt, with a 5-0 record and two shut outs, has a 1.18 ERA while Lujan, now 4-0, lowered his ERA to 2.82 with his win over New Mexico Military Tuesday.

Three members of Cohen's swingers carry healthy averages and three others are crowding the .300 circle. Third baseman Danny Blanco has a .397 average, outfielder Larry McFarlin is hitting .358 and catcher Charlie West has a .312 effort.

Meanwhile, first baseman John Miller is hitting .299, shortstop Bob Aguirre .297 and left fielder Ron Rush has a .286 average.

Excluding his pitching nominee, Cohen probably will go with a lineup consisting of Juan Sandoval (.259) at second base; West (.312) catcher; Blanco (.397) third base; McFarlin (.358) center field; Miller (.299) first base; Rush (.286) left field; Aguirre (.297) shortstop and John Murphy (.235) right field.

The Miners ran their record to 13-6-1 with a twin sweep of New Mexico Military Tuesday afternoon at Dudley Field.

With 20 games behind them, the Miners still have 18 games remaining, counting the weekend series with the Aggies.

After the short hop over to Las Cruces, the Miners have only two road swings remaining. One will carry them to Las Vegas, N.M., for a single tilt with New Mexico Highlands; another single at Denver, two in Pueblo with Southern Colorado State and a single with Air Force. The other road trip will be against Artesia College April 21.
