

Officers Nominated By Lions

Lynn Porter will be unopposed for president of the Downtown Lions Club, after nominations closed Friday for the April 5 election. The candidates will do their politicking at a campaign meeting on the preceding Friday.

Porter attended Houston Elementary School and graduated from Austin High School in 1945. In 1946 he joined White Stores, Inc., as a temporary clerk, and stayed with the organization, serving as assistant manager of the downtown store until 1951 when he was transferred to San Antonio as manager. He returned to El Paso as manager, now in charge of the store at 3920 Morehead.

Other officers nominated: First vice-president, Doyle E. Kern; second vice-president, Thomas W. Vaughn; third vice-president, William N. Bridler, Charles L. Orndorff, George U. Stauning and James C. Walsh Jr.; secretary-treasurer, Chester H. Chambers; Lion tamer, Bruce W. Brooks, Tom G. Hussman and John E. Joyce; Tail Twister, Carlos Hickerson Jr., Joseph D. Jenkins and Philip D. Stoner.

Nominated for three directorships were George W. Brown, Rodney O. Davenport, Edd C. Ekola, Fred J. Herschleder, Sol Litt, Clyde W. Lyons, Albert A. Mestan, William C. Newman, D. L. Pillow, H. Toby Tovar and William A. Walsh.

Friday was baseball day for the Lions, with Coach Andy Cohen introducing the Sun

Kings' manager, Chuck Tanner, returning for a third year with the local club supported by the California Angels. Tanner is a veteran of 23 years in baseball and a delightful speaker, now in his sixth year as a manager.

He pointed out the fact that all minor league clubs lose money, serving a main purpose of developing ball players for the big leagues. Seattle won the championship in the Pacific Coast League last year but lost more than $100,000. With an eight-team Texas League, Tanner promised some exciting baseball for the coming season.

Del Lucot, district manager of H & R Block Co. in El Paso, has been named to the firm's committee for national training of tax consultants which will train more than 20,000 consultants this year, by Daniel Pack of Kansas City, general manager of H & R Block.
