

FORTY YEARS AGO

April 12, 1928

(Thursday)

Andy Cohen, hometown boy making good in the big leagues, was hero of the season's opener for the New York Giants. It was his two-bagger, with two runners on bases, that beat Boston 4-2.

Mrs. Mary C. Hills, one of El Paso's early pioneers and aunt of Mrs. Otis Coles, died yesterday in Grand Rapids, Mich.

El Paso's bid for the proposed Eagles' $1 million national sanatorium, and the 1929 national convention, was made yesterday, by E. W. Kayser, first vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce.
