

Special To The Herald-Post
ALBUQUERQUE, June 7. —
The Albuquerque Dodgers returned home today and El Paso Sun Kings came here like two groggy fighters who had been knocked down and were barely able to get up before the count of 10.

The Dodgers, leaders of the Western Division in the Texas League race, returned home after being stopped in both ends of two successive doubleheaders by the San Antonio Missions. And the Kings flew to the Duke City after losing three in a row to the Amarillo Giants, and the first series loss suffered by the Kings in weeks.

The Kings came here after losing to Amarillo 7-2 last night while the Dodgers lost to San Antonio 5-4 and 2-1. The Kings actually gained ground in the race despite their loss last night. By losing only one game while the Dodgers lost two, they gained a half game and are now trailing Albuquerque by only two games.

Cohen was pretty well handcuffed last night. He couldn't do anything about the pitching or hitting of the Kings. Joe Overton was bombed for four hits and four runs in the first inning, and his relief man, Jim Holbrook, although pitching well in five innings, got nicked for a couple of runs in the second and Fred Newman, finishing up, yielded a final run in the seventh.

First game—
In tonight's game, missing.

Referring to the three losses at Amarillo, Cohen said, "the boys tried hard and felt real bad about their failure to split the series or win it. Last night, Wysocki looked easy to hit but the Sun Kings couldn't hit him consistently, and they couldn't understand why.
