

Coaches' Association Sets Clinic With TWC Heads

El Paso Coaches Association, in conjunction with the athletic department of Texas Western College, will sponsor Sun Country Coaches Clinic Feb. 25-26. More than 300 coaches from New Mexico and West Texas are expected to attend.

Bowie football coach Clay Cox, president of the association, announced that Bobby Dobbs, Andy Cohen, Ross Moore, Moe Iba and Don Haskins and their coaching staffs will be guest lecturers and speakers.

A buffet dinner 5:30 p.m. Feb. 25 at Sheraton Motor Inn will open the weekend.

Feb. 26 will feature a session by Miner football coach Dobbs, who will explain the TWC passing attack and defensive alignments from 8 a.m. - 11 a.m., in Magoffin Auditorium on the Texas Western campus.

From 11 a.m. - 12 noon, Haskins will lecture in Magoffin on the Miners' basketball strategy and execution. Also at 11 a.m. - 12 noon, Moore will deliver a lecture and demonstration on training.

After an hour lunch break, football films will be shown of the Texas Western Miners' 1965 season with Dobbs commenting on the action. This lecture will be from 1 p.m. - 2 p.m., as will basketball demonstrations by Haskins, Iba and crew in Memorial Gymnasium.

From 2 p.m. - 3 p.m., a football seminar will be held in Memorial and basketball films will be shown. From 3 p.m. - 4 p.m., Moore will lecture on track and Cohen will demonstrate baseball technique.

Dobbs took a squad of gridders that went winless in 1964 and parlayed the fantastic arm of quarterback Billy Stevens into an 8-3 season, climaxing with a 13-12 Sun Bowl victory over Texas Christian University of the Southwest Conference.

Haskins and Iba guided the Miner basketball teams to three consecutive appearances in post-season tournaments, and have taken the Miners to a No. 6 national ranking this season.

Moore, one of the veterans of Texas Western athletics, is a well-respected trainer and track coach. Cohen is a former major-league baseball player and is a coach for the El Paso Sun Kings of the AA Texas League.
