Dobbs' Negotiations For Army Post Continue

Texas Western football Coach Bobby Dobbs said Monday he continued negotiations with West Point about the coaching vacancy at Army but that no agreement was reached.

Dobbs said he talked to Army's athletic director, Col. Ray Murphy, by telephone but that no commitment by either side was made. Dobbs, a graduate of and former assistant coach at the U.S. Military Academy, said he had no plans to make a trip to West Point soon.

He declined to elaborate on the conversation.

Dobbs and Murphy met in El Paso during the weekend regarding the vacancy that occurred when Army Coach Paul Dietzel resigned to take the same job at South Carolina.

"We're negotiating," said Dobbs, who in one season at Texas Western converted the Miners' football fortunes from a winless season in 1964 to an 8-3 record last year, including a 13-

12 victory against Texas Christian in the Sun Bowl at El Paso.

Dobbs said he was experiencing no obstacles to the negotiations from Texas Western officials.

"These are very fine people here," Dobbs said. "I'm sure they're interested in me doing what's best for me."

The Miners have had five of their 20 spring football practices. The school now is on an Easter vacation status, and practices are not to resume before Wednesday.

The El Paso Sun Kings, gaining depth and power in last-second transactions at the California Angels' minor-league camp at Holtville, Calif., began the trek here Monday with manager Chuck Tanner the advance guard.

Tanner arrived Monday afternoon, bringing news of three additions or changes in the King roster for the Texas League season which opens Friday night in Albuquerque and blossoms at Dudley Field Sunday afternoon.

The new faces on the King roster:

Outfielder Arlo Engel, acquired from the San Francisco Giants after the sale of Charlie Dees to Cleveland;

Mickey Dobbins, utility infielder acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers organization and reporting to El Paso from Vero Beach, Fla.;

Pitcher George Dugan, a left-hander assigned to the Kings in place of Don Keller, rookie. Dugan pitched for Quad Cities last year.

Art Miranda, shortstop, and Bobby Mitchell, infielder-outfielder with the Kings last year, were assigned to San Jose in the California League after Dobbins was obtained from the Dodgers.

Dees, a strong favorite with El Paso fans in his two previous stints at Dudley Field, is to report to Portland, the Indian farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Engel is to report in El Paso from the Giants' Casa Grande, Ariz., spring camp.

Four members of the Sun Kings are to fly to El Paso Tuesday while the remainder of the 23-man roster will drive here from Holtville, and some may not arrive until Wednesday morning.

WORK WEDNESDAY

First El Paso workout is scheduled for 1 p.m. Wednesday, and another for 7:30 p.m. under Dudley Field's realigned lights.

Thursday the team will go to Albuquerque for their Friday night league opener.

Engel, a long-ball hitter with tremendous power, was a popular gardner in two El Paso stints during their time as a Giant farm club. The exchange of Dees and Engel is seen as a boost in power at the expense of average. Engel was a member of the 1964 King bomber crew which shattered the Texas League home run record by hammering out 212 four-baggers.

Engel finished the season last year with Springfield of the Eastern League.

Dobbins originally was drafted from the Dodgers by the Angels last year, but when he was optioned to El Paso he was reclaimed by the Dodgers. Last year he played with Seattle and Spokane of the Pacific Coast League and with Salem of the Northwest League.

Dugan, a product of Murray State of Kentucky, where he hurled 16 shutouts and two no-hitters, had a 5-4 record at Quad Cities. Three of his five victories were shutouts.

SECOND LEFTY

Dugan is the second left-hander on the King hurling roster—the other is Clyde Wright, who also is one of three knuckle-ball hurlers on the squad. Aubrey Gatewood, Angel starter last year, and George Sherrod, moving up from San Jose, also hurl the fluttering pitch.

Tanner pointed out the Sun King equipment includes the big knuckleball catcher's mitt.

The Sun King skipper said the 1966 Kings may well be the youngest lineup in Texas League history, but said the team has much greater offensive and defensive strength, in depth, than last season. He said the key to the Sun King future lay in the pitching, which potentially is far greater than that of a year ago.
