Andy Cohen's New Orleans team, a Pittsburgh farm base, has climbed into first division in the Southern Association after running dead last through most of the summer . . . Port Arthur probably faces the roughest road to the Big State playoffs despite a double victory over Waco at Katy Park. The Chiefs must finish the season against Abilene and Wichita Falls, two teams struggling for first division berths themselves. . . . Charley Dupre's thumbnail description of the 1956 season
