

ON SECOND THOUGHT

All Wacoans interested in the city having a strong sports program, whether they be Baylor supporters or not, will hail Jack Patterson's decision to remain with the Bears. Now it is up to the university and to all the groups that support it athletically to make sure the modest, unassuming, dedicated track master never has cause to regret his decision.

Out of this Jack Patterson case may come a brighter page for a school which has experienced its share of ups and downs athletically. Seldom in recent Baylor history have alumni leaders, top athletic figures and influential Waco business people rallied so quickly behind a phase of the athletic program. A similar effort might achieve similar results on other fronts.

Baseball continues to play a tickle hand. Bob Hazle, the guy who last year made baseball the biggest story in Milwaukee, yesterday discovered 1958 is a different season. The Braves sent him off to Detroit, just as the Cardinals a few days earlier had sent their 1957 sparkplug, Alvin Dark, off to the Cubs. . . The biggest surprise of the SWC recruiting season is TCU's track successes, and the biggest surprise of those successes is the recruiting of New Boston's Sidney Garton. A month ago you could have gotten good odds that Garton would choose any school in the conference over TCU. One of the Frogs explains it thusly: "We sold him on the idea of being a pioneer. At a number of other schools he would just be equaling records somebody else had already set. Here, he can be the first." Jack Patterson thinks he has a top prospect out of Nebraska lined up for future delivery.

Hog Talent Hunt Short-Term Affair

Football recruiting in Texas is now at its fiery peak but in Arkansas, says Frank Broyles, it has been over for three months except for a couple of boys. "That's one real advantage we have," he admits. . . Today's figures show Mickey Vernon is hitting .365. Ike can remember when Mickey was playing first base for the Senators. . . When he was still a lieutenant colonel in the Army. . . Fort Worth's Dick Moore wonders if Rodger McFarland, the whiz-bang Paschal quarterback signed by the Aggies, isn't about to slip off to the Oklahoma reservation. . . Danny Griffin of Frederick, Okla., the top schoolboy back in Sooner-land about whom Bud Wilkinson was moaning last week, has urged Baylor to quit worrying, says he's not even talking to Oklahoma representatives. . .

After studying the spring films Frank Broyles calls his top quarterbacks, Jim Monroe and Mike Cooney, "adequate offensively but excellent defensive safety men". . . Although Bobby Morrow and James Secrest graduate this spring, ACC expects its best balanced track team of all time next year. "They're talking of running the 440 relay under 40 seconds," Jack Patterson reports. . . Although some schools are talking about eliminating baseball scholarships until peace can be achieved with the pro raiders, Baylor's Lloyd Russell takes a different view. "We're still going after high school prospects. Then if they sign for $25,000 or $50,000, why I figure I've done a great job". . .

Harrington to Try Coaching Ranks

Although onetime Baylor All-America Bill Glass had assumed he would be used for defensive middle guard chores with the Detroit Lions, coach George Wilson has indicated he wants the big Texan for offensive tackle. . . Lee Harrington, a three-year letterman for the Bears, will join the coaching ranks at Pasadena next fall. . . After a number of big moments with various Pittsburgh farm teams the last few years, onetime Waco star Fred Waters has been given his release. He was with Salt Lake City. . . If Denver ever makes the major leagues the only logical choice for manager would be a onetime Katy Park favorite, Andy Cohen. When Denver was in the Class A Western League several years ago Andy did the managing and won two pennants. He returned to the Triple-A Bears this season and has them sprinting out of sight in the American Association. . .

That was an unusual statement Auburn football coach Shug Jordan had when the Southeastern Conference followed up the NCAA's lead by slapping the Plainsmen on probation, too. Jordan said he was disappointed by the action and declared the league had missed an opportunity to "grow up and be a real conference." Since when does winking at the rules constitute "a real conference"? . . . SMU expects Steve Jordan to bolster the Colt basketball team next season. The McAllen star signed a letter of
