Mike Rima, a transfer from Indian Hills Junior College, has been given the go-ahead to start Friday's first game for the University of Texas at El Paso against Ranger Junior College.

The Miners host Ranger for a four game exhibition series beginning at 1 p.m. with a doubleheader at the Ysleta Cutoff. The two teams will meet in a twinbill against Saturday at 1 p.m.

"Rima's all-around mound poise, good delivery and concentration is what impresses me," said Andy Cohen of his starter who will be filling in for injured Jeff Hogan who is suffering a back injury.

"I had planned on starting Hogan for the first game," said Cohen, "but he came down with a sore back and it doesn't look like he'll get to pitch Friday."

Still two weeks away from the season opener against Abilene Christian College on March 5th, Cohen plans to see as many of his pitchers during this weekend series as possible.

"In the first game, I also want to see how some of my freshmen do. I'll probably use Bill Watts, Steve Hernandez and Gary Kobat," explained Cohen. "As for the second game, I'll start Dave Jannusch and use Joe Dehn and Andy Grooms in relief."

Converted football player Jerry Walker, a punter for the Miners, is scheduled to start Saturday's opener but Cohen is undecided on his second hurler for the nightcap.

Freshman Terry Goodro will be behind the plate for Friday's opener while Mike Miller and Joe Segapelli will split game two.

"We've had two real good practices this week," said Cohen of his team's workouts leading up to the Ranger Series. "Unfortunately, our first baseman, Keith Dwinell, hurt his arm while practicing sliding drills and he may not start for us."

If such is the case, Cohen plans on using John Hrinak or Mike Salazar at first.

Also on the injury list is outfielder Terry Dillingham with a pulled hamstring. "It's kind of rough going into these games with three of my best players out with injuries but these are only exhibition games," said Cohen.

The rest of the lineup has Art Bravo at second, Glenn Villarreal playing third and Dave Patt at shortstop. Making up the outfielder will be David Carrillo in center, Keith Rushing in left and possibly Dillingham in right.

Outfielder-pitcher Steve Dau is slated for designated hitter.

"We should have some good power in the lineup with Rushing, Dau and Glenn (Villarreal)," said Cohen. "Rushing has been hitting the ball real hard lately."
