

Lions Elect C. Krigbaum As President

Clark Krigbaum, 34, an El Paso insurance executive Friday was elected by acclamation as president of the Downtown Lions Club. He succeeds Rod Davenport.

Others elected to serve for the 1966-76 year, include Bill Burton Jr. and Harold Peterson, vice presidents who ran unopposed.

Clark Krigbaum

Bill Holmes and George Weidner, two of eight candidates who ran for places in the board of directors, won by a slight margin. A run-off election for the third place on the board will be held next week. The contestants are Tom Howell, Oscar Schon, and Milo Gardner. Others elected include Gene Reimer for lion tamer and Frank Leroux, as tail twister. Fred Herschleder, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

The new president, a member of the club since 1970, is a 1965 graduate of Texas Western College, now the University of Texas at El Paso. He is an associate of the Marsh Insurance Co.

The new officers will officially take office the first Friday in July.

The other highlight of Friday's election meeting was the presentation of Andy Cohen, who pitch-hit for the guest speaker who failed to appear. Cohen, a club member, and former Major League baseball player, was given a rousing ovation for his timely tales of his baseball career. Cohen presently directs the baseball program at UTEP.