

Cohen Has Superstition

Denver's Junior World Series champions will go with Ben Flowers, who labored at Louisville in 1950 and 1954, in tonight's scuffle. The

Jim Pyburn

Boys' Fashion Guild. Cohen, you will notice tonight, has a pet superstition. When he takes his place in the third base coaching box, he goes to the far end and makes a little curtsy.

six-foot-four North Carolinian set a major league record with Boston in 1953 when he appeared in eight straight games as a relief pitcher. He won ten and lost eight for Denver last season, was 2-1 against Louisville. . . . The Bears' skipper, Andy Cohen, has been chosen one of Denver's best dressed men by the city's Men's and Colonel Quin A. . . .