Carlos Vigil Seeks E.P. County Post

Carlos Vigil, 3021 Sacramento avenue, a beer company route distributor, has announced his candidacy for County Commissioner Precinct 1. Clyde Anderson is the incumbent.

A life long resident of El Paso, Vigil has worked with Falstaff Distributors for the past four years. Prior to that the concrete spire which marks the exact spot where the international boundary of the United States and Mexico leaves the Rio Grande and takes off overland toward the west will be the site of a ceremony at 10 a.m. observed by members of the U.S. International Boundary Commission, El Paso County Historical Society, Dona Ana County Historical Society, and Beautify El Paso group and invited guests and officials.

The tree planting will be under the direction of Andy Cohen, as president of Beautify El Paso, donor of the trees.

Joseph F. Friedkin, U.S. International Water and Boundary Commissioner, was the instigator of the project. Representing the Historical Society will be the president, Leon Metz.

The Historical Society donated money for the purchase of concrete benches and flagstones. Also offering to donate flagstones is the Dona Ana County Historical Society.

The Mexican side of the boundary has already been planted with trees and a bust of Francisco I. Madero, Mexican revolutionary leader, has been erected.

Cold Air Hits All of Texas

By United Press International

A frigid blast of Arctic air settled over the entire state today but southerly winds gave hope of perhaps a milder, if not warmer, weekend.

Freezing temperatures, however, were prevalent almost over the entire state with only a few south Texas cities reporting mercury above the 32 degree mark. Readings were in the teens over much of northern and southwest Texas. Central Texas dropped into the 20s.
