

Indians Trip Buffalo, 2-1

By MAX GREENWALD, Star Sports Writer

Pompano Beach, Fla.—It happens every spring. It's the story repeated every year of the unknown who breaks into the baseball limelight with a scintillating exhibition performance.

The Indianapolis Indians had one of these surprises as three pitchers checked Buffalo on four hits here yesterday. The Tribe gained its first exhibition triumph, 2-1.

Arnie Atkins, a veteran of 10 seasons, blanked the Bisons the first three innings. Hal Trosky, 20-year-old son of a former diamond great, who took up pitching last year, did a commendable job the next three frames as Buffalo made its only run.

Then Ed Szyzewski came to the mound and completed the task of giving the Bisons their first loss after they had won three suntan league games.

Also just 20, Szyzewski (pronounced Cha-jes-ki) not only held Buffalo scoreless but didn't give up a hit. He walked one and had four strikeouts.

Manager Andy Cohen of the Tribe isn't the sort of fellow who will turn down a lad just because he has had only one year of experience and that in Class C.

Cohen was impressed enough by Szyzewski yesterday that he is going to give him every opportunity to go north with the Indians.

Of course, Szyzewski hasn't made the club yet, but his showing against Buffalo has given him a great start.

The righthander isn't even on the Indianapolis roster, having been assigned to the Davenport list in the Chicago White Sox scheme of things.

"HE MAY not throw harder than anyone else in camp but no one else throws harder," is the way Cohen expressed it.

Szyzewski also impressed with his poise on the mound and his smooth delivery.

The youngster showed his stuff in the ninth when he got an inside fast ball across to fan Lou Ortiz, an old-timer as far as Triple-A baseball is concerned.

Szyzewski got his high school training at Lane Tech in Chicago. Last year with Duluth he had the league's best earned run average of 2.19. He was second in strikeouts with 179 as he compiled a 12-7 record.

Atkins fed the Bisons a diet of curves and knuckle balls as he held command.

Trosky made his good showing despite a blistered finger, being most effective with a sinker ball. His own bad throw to third base led to Buffalo's only marker.

Szyzewski also drove across the winning run in the eighth with a single to center.

The other Indianapolis tally was registered in the fourth on Tom McGroarty's wild pitch.

Cohen also has been pleased with the showing of Dick Means, the outfielder throwing out a runner at home for the second straight day.

Incidentally, the deciding run was scored off another lefty, Marv Rotblatt, who started in pro baseball in the White Sox organization.
