

Greggerson To Attend U.T. El Paso

Jim Greggerson, All-District hurler for the District 2-AAAA champion Ysleta, announced Tuesday that he has signed a letter of intent to attend University of Texas at El Paso and play baseball under coach Andy Cohen.

Greggerson finished the 1969 season with a 10-4 record and was instrumental in the Indians' title drive.

Greggerson also won the opening bi-district tilt against the Eastwood Troopers but ran into trouble in the second round of the Class AAAA baseball tournament and lost two games to Midland Lee, runners-up in the state meet.

The 6-foot-5 pitcher was the only El Paso baseball player to be drafted in the June professional baseball draft but turned down a bid by the Seattle Pilots of the American League.
