Vocal Minority Buck Meany's Nixon Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—A small but increasingly vocal minority of union leaders is opposing AFL-CIO President George Meany's support of President Nixon's war policies in Vietnam and Cambodia.

"The AFL-CIO is not inflexible, and many of us feel strongly that it is out of step with the thinking of the 13 million members it represents," says the 350-member Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union.

"Our members, like all working people and like the majority of all Americans, want peace. And they want peace now, without delay, without further military adventures, without more killing," says President Jacob Petrosky of the 400,000-member Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

"These sentiments are echoed by several other union leaders whose followers add up to about 10 percent of the labor federation's 13.6 million members in 122 labor unions."

OTHERS ALSO OPPOSE

In addition, the two largest unions, which are outside the AFL-CIO—the United Auto Workers with 1.6 million members, and the Teamsters Union with 2 million—oppose Nixon on the war through the Alliance for Labor Action.

Admiral of the 35-year-old Meany says that within the federation nothing has really changed, that Nixon's Cambodian intervention merely brought more public comment from the support of the union's long-time war dissenters.

"There isn't any new, sudden shift of opinion," said an AFL-CIO spokesman.

"I think I speak for nine-tenths of them," Meany said at a recent news conference when asked if his support of Nixon's war policies was representative of the labor federation.

SAME BOTH PARTIES

Meany's position has extended through both Democratic and Republican administrations and is based on the premise that such matters should be entrusted to the President and that the union is entitled to the support of the President's foreign policy. The policy was the same during the Korean War.

Meany also said he believes Nixon's statement that the Cambodian action is designed to protect American troops in Vietnam, and would eventually make it possible to bring more Americans home.

"If I thought he was doing it to escape the war, I would oppose it," Meany said.

"You have to concede he has gotten a hell of a lot of troops out of there so far," a Meany aide said of Nixon's withdrawal of troops from Vietnam.

Nevertheless, some union leaders in the AFL-CIO have become increasingly nervous about the war.

"This union is opposed to the expansion of the Vietnam war into Cambodia and urges withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam consistent with the safety of troops," said the 600,000-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Workers headed by Jerry Wurf.

"That's the same position as ours and the same position as we've argued," Meany spokesman of the State, County and Municipal Workers' convention resolution adopted after heated debate in Denver May 1.

The resolution, coincidentally, came on the same day that AFL-CIO construction

Fulbright Claims Ky Is 'An Asian Agnew'

Nixon's May 8 statement that South Vietnamese forces would be coming out about the time Americans did, officials have indicated U.S. air and logistics support would be available to South Vietnamese forces for operations in Cambodia.

"They by step," Fulbright said, "the administration has hedged, backed off and now all that repudiated the President's confident prediction of South Vietnamese withdrawal."

CITES KY'S CONTENTION

He cited Ky's contention that U.S. statements about South Vietnamese withdrawal from Cambodia are "a silly argument of silly people" and said "sometimes we are reminded that Mr. Thieu is a boss, and that we ought not to take Mr. Ky's colorful assertions too seriously."

"Perhaps Ky is no more than an Asian Agnew," Fulbright said, "but here is a every reason to believe that his chief, President Nguyen Van Thieu, is no less than the same Americans did, officials have indicated U.S. air and logistics support would be available to South Vietnamese forces for operations in Cambodia.

Although "this war has become a moral and economic disaster" crating "a condition indicative of social disintegration," Fulbright said, the Nixon administration is sticking to its support of the Thieu-Ky government.

Dole said his amendment "will serve not only as notice to the money of the United States," denunciation to do whatever is possible and necessary to secure the release of American captives, it will also stand as an expression of the Senate's concern to the parents, wives and families of captured and missing American servicemen.

But Fulbright said it "is quite obviously designed to destroy any effect whatsoever" of the Cooper-Church amendment.

Apollo's Near Disaster Problem Sequence Told

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—In statements clarifying and correcting a previous announcement, the space agency Thursday charted a probable sequence of events which led to the Apollo 13 space explosion and near disaster.

Space agency spokesmen said the sequence began with a problem—which is still not understood—before the ill-fated moon mission began.

Oxygen tank No. 2 on the Apollo 13 service module was filled with liquid oxygen during the countdown demonstration test at Cape Kennedy two weeks before launch.

After successful completion of the test, workers were unable to drain the tank in the normal way. A special procedure was used.

GAS VENTED

This special procedure, officials said, included turning on heaters in the tank to force the liquid oxygen to warm up and become gaseous. The gas was then vented.

Edgar M. Cortright, chairman of the Apollo 13 review board, said this procedure apparently damaged two thermal switches and caused them to fail. These switches act as thermostats, switching off the heaters when they become too hot.

With the switches not working, temperatures in the heater tube inside the oxygen tank reached about 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, Cortright said.

This high temperature caused insulation union members were involved in a brawl 150 students' demonstrators in downtown New York, which prompted a protest from another AFL-CIO leader.

ACTION ASSAILED

"Such action is shameful and it is to be hoped that the incident remains an isolated one," said Paul Jennings, president of the 330,000-member International Union of Electrical Workers.

But Jennings voted in support of an AFL-CIO Executive Council resolution supporting Nixon's action in Cambodia.

tion on wires powering fans in the oxygen tank to melt away. The fans in the tank are used to prevent the liquid oxygen from stratifying in different levels of temperature.

FANS TRIGGERED

After Apollo 13 was launched on April 11, the fans worked without incident until the night of April 12. When the fans were switched on then, officials said, the wires without insulation apparently caused an electrical arc.

The arc ignited material in the tank, possibly wire insulation. Heat from this combustion caused a build up in pressure, which in turn caused the tank to explode, officials believe.

The explosion caused loss of most of the command and service module oxygen and electricity. The planned moon landing was abandoned and the mission aborted.

In the announcement Wednesday, the space agency said the tests which led to development of the probable sequence were conducted at Boulder Air Force Base, Boulder, Colo. Officials said Thursday the tests were conducted here.

POWERED FANS

The 8-day-old announcement also stated that it was insulation on the heater wires which was damaged. On Thursday, officials said the damaged wires powered the fans.

Officials were unable to say why the oxygen tank could not be emptied normally after the countdown demonstration test.

Fl. Bliss Men Fire Vulcan

FL. Bliss trained air defense personnel recently completed their first live-fire Army Training Test for the Vulcan anti-aircraft system at Ft. Rucker, Kan. The men, members of the 1st Infantry Division, participated in the first live-fire test for any Vulcan unit outside Ft. Bliss.

ASSOCIATION BOASTS

THREE GENERATIONS

The Beauty El Paso Association is proud of its membership. Especially so, since we have a three-generation membership. We are referring to that of Judge and Mrs. J. E. Thompson, their daughter, Mrs. Ben Dechard of Dallas and a granddaughter, Mrs. David Herndon, who has just moved to El Paso, where she and her husband are now members of the association.

Following is a letter written to our treasurer, Mrs. Hausmann, which will show Mrs. Herndon's interest in our City.

Dear Mrs. Hausmann: My husband and I have just moved to El Paso, and are interested in the beauty of the city. I heard of the Beauty El Paso Association from my mother, Mrs. Ben Dechard of Dallas, and would like to make a donation as a member. Yours truly, Mrs. David Herndon.

Mrs. Herndon is surely showing the true spirit of her famous grandfather by expressing her interest and love for the City, which she will now call her home.

This is due paying time, since our year runs from April 1 to March 31. We are looking for new members, and of course, hoping that all those who have become members will join with our new president, Andy Cohen, in helping him make this year the most successful.

Dr. H. C. Haven has become a member of the Beauty El Paso Association Board of Managers.

WASHINGTON PROTEST

PUEZZING TO WRITER

Editor, El Paso Times:

I think the closing of so many colleges before the final exams and caps and gowns, is exactly what the hard core revolutionaries have planned, and worked for. These 30 and 35 year old "youths." And it couldn't have done without the cooperation or consent of the faculty.

The greatest per cent of the youngsters are decent, and because of their decency, they haven't been able to bring themselves to cope with the wild ones. I don't remember reading in our papers about what happened in Washington on May 3, 1970. The nation of youth, "Woodstock at Washington" as one youth put it, spread its tents and flags and celebrated in the reflecting pool in front of the Lincoln Memorial, naked, girls and boys whooping it up. They chased frightened Coca-Cola men from their trucks and took the stinkiest steel drums and drank from them, proud that they had stolen the stuff in broad daylight.

Many Americans find the Reflecting Pool a lovely place to stroll. The Poor People's demonstrators used it for a lair and now the students have found themselves in an "swimmin' hole." The candid camera fans had a business holiday taking pictures of the students the news media sell us are to be the intellectuals of tomorrow.

Demostinating in the nude. I wonder if our courts will be harrassed with new laws as being in violation of their "right" not to wear clothes. Just what effect does this relate to the war? Just this: what they were supposed to be protesting!
