

Andy Cohen Is Guest Speaker

Andy Cohen, head baseball coach at UTEP and coach for the El Paso Sun Kings, was the guest speaker for the LTV-Aerojet Management Club meeting Wednesday at the WSMR Officer's Mess.

Cohen, a former major league manager, coach and player, related many of his experiences as a professional sports manager. His presentation was highlighted by several remarks concerning well-known baseball greats such as Dizzy Dean and Joe DiMaggio. Cohen stated that in sports management there are only two types of managers. . . "those who have been fired and those about to be fired."

In addition, club members participated in a skit entitled "Solving Quality Problems in a Big Corporation" or "What's All the Fuss." Bill Skelton served as topic master for the comedy-satire prepared by LTV - QA personnel.
