

A La Carte

By AL CARTWRIGHT

Sports Editor

TONY STALLONI, DELAWARE'S LITTLE ALL-AMERICA tackle in the Bill Murray era, postcards from Rome: "Got to see the Olympics, also the Pope. P. S.—The spaghetti here is lousy."

Al Cartwright

AND WHILE ON MURRAY, THE former coach of the Blue Hens will try the bounce-back act at Duke this season. His 1959 team staggered through a 4-5 autumn, which was capped by that 50-0 butchering at the hands of North Carolina. That Murray may be getting a little desperate is indicated in his declaration that Duke this season will do a lot of passing. Bill long has been a die-hard infantry man on the gridiron. As the old saying goes, he passed only in card games.

EVERYTIME YOU BUMP INTO Andy Cohen, the Phillies' first-base coach wants to be remembered to a couple of Wilmingtonians who were his buddies in the World War II Army. They are Bill Budinger and John Handley, who served with Cohen in the Engineers in Africa and Italy.

"I was their first sergeant," Andy grins. "Tell 'em not to forget to salute me."

ISN'T IT TOO BAD THAT MIKE BOYD, THE DELAWARE tackle, doesn't play end? Then you could say that the Boyd is on the wing.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK:

Today—Art Mayer 29, Phil Freccia 40, George Ludwigson 60. Tomorrow—Don James 19, Bob Folts 19, Jack Huxley 81. Friday—Ken Mifflin 18. Saturday—J. Simpson Dean 62, Dr. Arthur Aitken 43.

MICKEY AND MARK KING, FORMER CLAYMONT High athletes, have had their returns to college delayed by a serious automobile accident. They're home now, recuperating after being badly hurt in Oakland, Calif., where they worked this summer. Mark ran on the Delaware cross-country team last year. Mickey, who also ran at Claymont, is a Carnegie Tech student.