

Latman Could Be Great, Says Cohen

By SID HARTMAN

Minneapolis Tribune Sports Writer

Barry Latman, 20-year-old rookie pitcher who beat the Millers 7-3 Thursday, is in his third year of organized baseball and Indianapolis manager Andy Cohen considers the tall right hander "one of the prize prospects in the White Sox system."

Latman was 18-5 at Waterloo in the Three-I league his first year after leaving Southern California in the middle of his sophomore year. He was 14-14 for Memphis in the Southern Association a year ago.

"Latman had good control at times yesterday and his curve really did a job," said Cohen. "All the kid needs is confidence and then he will gain the consistency that should make him a great pitcher."

Latman, one of four baseball players who left the Southern California team to sign a pro contract in the same year, had lost his first two starts—a 1-0 no-hitter to Stu Miller of Minneapolis and he was shelled from the mound in the fifth inning early this week by Omaha.

"I DIDN'T mind losing the no-hitter, because Miller pitched great ball against us," said Latman. "I think I was a little sharper today than the first time I faced Minneapolis."

Getting back to Cohen, the Tribe boss thought Latman had made one serious mistake in the game at Indianapolis when he threw a high, hanging curve to Carlos Paula. Paula hit it to drive in the winning run. "Today he didn't make any bad mistakes."

Cohen felt that Miller lacked the control he had in his first start against Indianapolis. Ron Jackson, Indianapolis first baseman down from the White Sox, agreed.

"Miller is the type of pitcher you must see a few times to catch on to," said Jackson. "His windup is deceiving and he throws that tricky slow stuff."

RED DAVIS, Minneapolis manager, was encouraged only by the fact that "some of our guys are starting to swing the bat."

"Stu didn't have control today and he needs it to win," said Red. "He didn't help himself any when he threw the ball into left field in the third inning to give Indianapolis two runs."

"We need Hank Thompson and Paula in the lineup, but it doesn't look like we'll have them for a few days."

Davis thought Latman changed his speeds better than he did against the Millers at Indianapolis.

Miller catcher Jake Jenkins reported Miller couldn't get his breaking stuff to work.

Miller was one of the first dressed and out of the clubhouse. "I just didn't have it," he said.

COHEN RECALLS NICOLLET DAYS

Andy Cohen, Indianapolis manager who played for Minneapolis in the 30s, took a long look around Metropolitan stadium Thursday.

Then he announced in considered tones: "This park looks a little different than Nicollet park used to. There seems to be quite a bit more room, especially in right field."

Paula Sw 'She Pul

Carlos Paula, Minneapolis floating rib muscle, was planned Thursday until he took batting "She pull a leetle," said C

MAYOR ERIC HOYER WINDS UP, PITCHES
Throws out first ball at Bloomington stadium

PAPAI VS. CORWIN

Al Papai, knuckleball righthander, will pitch for Indianapolis today at 2:30 p.m. against Al Corwin of Minneapolis.

MILLERS DRA 12,500 TICKE

Although 12,500 tickets Minneapolis-Indianapolis game crowd which actually passed at 10,472.

Business Manager George explained the smaller figure to Waukegan-Minneapolis exhibition with the Minneapolis-Indianapolis of the out-of-town fans who see the exhibition with the BAA opener."

A definite count of tickets be available for several days.

Last season Minneapolis trophy with a crowd of 18,000 to beat this season sold 10,000 tickets in advance until tonight by cold weather.

BAKERS' ASSOCIATION PRESENTS MILLERS WITH PASTRY STADIUM
Left to right: Millers' Henry Thompson; Mayor Hoyer, Manager Red Davis