

Cohen Relates Version of Play

Ruling Gives Braves Second Over Tribe

By BILL HODGE

"When a team is going bad it will find new ways to beat itself." The speaker of these words Wednesday was Indianapolis Indians Manager Andy Cohen whose Tribe is scheduled to resume a four-tilt stand against the second-place Wichita Braves Wednesday night in Lawrence Stadium.

"Last night we had that interference call on our catcher which was the first time that has been

Where Teams Play

Wednesday's schedule and probable pitchers (times EST):

Denver at Minneapolis—Ed Donnelly (3-0) vs. Steve Ridzik (0-0), 7:15 p.m.

Louisville at Charleston (2)—Don Rudolph (3-8) and Rex Jones (0-1) vs. Pete Wojey (3-2) and Chuck Daniel (3-6), 4:30 p.m.

St. Paul at Omaha—Stan Williams (10-2) vs. Bob Mabe (8-5), 8 p.m.

Indianapolis at Wichita—Tony Ponce (6-5) or Cloyd Boyer (0-0) vs. Joe Jay (7-5), 8 p.m.

called on us and it put the winning run out there," Cohen recounted in reviewing his club's 10-8 loss Tuesday evening.

"Then night before last our first baseman drops a throw, the first time that has happened all season, and its costs us the game," he added.

Cohen wasn't so sure the umpire was right in ruling interference against catcher John Romano in the seventh inning with Earl Hersh standing in the batters' box.

"Our pitcher had Hersh fooled with the pitch and the ball had just about been caught when Hersh hit it," the Indianapolis skipper said. "He actually hit the ball out of our catcher's glove."

The play was a costly one for Indianapolis for it set the stage for Ray Shearer's three-run double to centerfield for the go-ahead runs at 9-8. Without the interference call Hersh, who had hit a slow roller to third base and been thrown out, would have been the third out of the inning.

Righthander Don McMahon picked up his sixth victory of the season in relief and for a third straight time 12-game winner Carlton Willey failed to finish what he started.

Reliever Tom Flanigan was the loser for Indianapolis.

Either Tony Ponce (6-5) or ex-St. Louis Cardinal hurler Cloyd Boyer (0-0) will be the starting pitcher for Indianapolis Wednesday night.

Righthander Joey Jay (7-5) will pitch for the Braves.
