

Hanging Up Spikes

Andy Cohen To Sell Beer

DENVER, Nov. 12 (AP)—Andy Cohen is hanging up his spikes for keeps—he says.

The one-time New York Giants second baseman, who managed the Denver Bears in the American Assn. last season, said today he's going to sell beer.

He is taking a sales training course with the Adolph Coors Co. and later will go to El Paso, Tex., as the firm's distributor. His brother, Syd, is with the company in El Paso.

COHEN

Cohen, 53, is an alumnus of University of Alabama. The twisting trails of baseball took him to Waco, Tex., and Buffalo, then to New York as an infielder for John McGraw.

He wound up at Minneapolis in the Association in 1932 and stayed there for nine seasons. Managerial assignments took Andy to Pine Bluff, Ark., Dayton, Ohio, Eau Claire, Wis., Denver, New Orleans, Indianapolis and back to Denver.
