

Hit to Left Field Goes Through Shortstop Logan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Send 'em away and they'll always come to haunt you. (Baseball Proverb)

A case in point arose with disconcerting timing in the 10th inning last night with the Philadelphia Phillies at bat.

Joe Koppe, a Milwaukee Braves reject, strode to the plate, hitless in five previous tries, and smote what could have been a side-reversing double play ball. Instead it went through shortstop Johnny Logan for a single into left field, driving in Bobby Del Greco from second with the run that gave the Phils a 5-4 victory over the Braves.

The outcome may make it possible for Acting Manager Andy Cohen of the Phils to go down in the records as baseball's only unbeaten manager.

Mauch Arrives Today.

Cohen took over for one day Thursday when Manager Eddie Sawyer quit. The new Phillies boss Gene Mauch of Minneapolis arrives today, but it won't alter the fact that Cohen won a battle of strategy in the 10th with Milwaukee's boss Charlie Dressen.

Del Greco was the hero of Philadelphia's victory Thursday night. He scored the winning run after figuring in two previous Phillies scoring blasts. His earlier contributions included a two-run homer and a run scoring double.

Del Greco, whose weak bat has kept him from making the Major leagues in four previous tries, walked to open the extra inning. He then stole second. After Catcher Jim Coker flied out, the brain trusts of both teams went into action.

Cohen sent Ted Lepcio, a right hand hitter to bat for pitcher Don Cardwell against southpaw reliever Juan Pizarro. Dressen countered with pitcher Bob Gligie, a right hander, so Cohen subbed John Gallison, a left hand swinger for Lepcio.

Gallison was walked intentionally. Joe Koppe, who had struck out in three previous trips to the plate, singled off shortstop Johnny Logan's glove, scoring Del Greco with the winning run.

Cardwell also was a Phillies hero. He came on in the fifth inning and in addition to pitching fine ball unloaded the third home run of his major league career in the sixth to tie the score at 4-4. He allowed six hits and one run, struck out 5 and walked none in his six inning tour of duty.

Gets Three-Run Lead.

Milwaukee got off to an early three-run lead in the first inning off Curt Simmons, the 30-year-old southpaw who is attempting a comeback after being sidelined most of last year with a sore arm.

Johnny Logan drew a one-out walk and after Eddie Mathews struck out, Hank Aaron smashed the first of his four hits, a home run into the lower left field seats. Joe Adcock followed with a homer over the scoreboard in right center, the first right-hander to clear the barrier, 400 feet away and 60 feet high.

In the second inning, an error and a single by Red Schoendienst, the first for the Redhead since coming back to the majors after his tuberculosis siege, was the end of Simmons. Rube Gomez came on, retired the side and kept Milwaukee from scoring during his three inning term. Cardwell took the mound in the fifth and the Braves got to him for their final run on Logan's single and Aaron's center field triple.

Score Is Tied.

The Phillies got a run off starter Carl Willey in the second on a single by Harry Anderson and a double by Del Greco. Philadelphia then tied the score and sent Willey to the showers in the fifth when Anderson singled and Del Greco got a home run and Cardwell followed with his four-base blow that tied the score.

The crowd of 32,038 was the largest to see the Phillies in action at home since the 1958 season. The veteran Alvin Dark got his 2,000 major league, an infield single, in the sixth.

Juan Pizarro was charged with the defeat and Cardwell was the winner.

The two teams have an open date today but resume action here Saturday.
