

Miners Get Pitching, Need Good Field Play

By DERRY EADS

Andy Cohen can't help but be pleased with an almost endless supply of top-notch hurlers.

Mike Miller and David Waide made their first mound appearances for U.T.-El Paso yesterday and the pair pitched the Miners to a 9-0, 3-2 sweep over New Mexico State University at Dudley Field.

The Miner staff has allowed only 24 runs in compiling a 5-3 record this year for an average of only three per game. But a lot of those runs, as was the case yesterday, have been unearned.

AFTER MILLER had hurled a two-hit shutout in the first game, Waide came back in the nightcap to permit only two unearned runs.

"Waide really rung in here well," commented Cohen, "especially with the bad support he had from the team. We are just not playing good ball.

"Our pitching has been just tremendous, but our hitting has been bad and we are not playing heads-up ball on the field. A lot of our mistakes can be attributed to nervousness because we have a lot of young kids. Once they settle down, then we will be all right."

MILLER, A converted catcher, was in control of the game all the way and coasted with the help of a six run first inning.

"He's only a freshman," Cohen pointed out, "and has to get a little polish. His control was excellent and he kept the curve down."
