

ASU Wins 20-7

Minemen Hit Good, Field Bad

By DERRY EADS

How can one be optimistic about losing a 20-7 baseball game?

Arizona State University, the No. 2 team in the nation, racked Dudley Field for 22 hits, 10 of which went for extra bases, as the Sun Devils toppled U.T.-El Paso and upped its Western Athletic Conference record to 10-0.

The Miners helped ASU's cause by committing five errors in the fifth inning to permit in nine runs, five of which were unearned, to score. The outburst erased a 4-4 tie.

ASU coach Jim Brock showed mercy for U.T.-El Paso when, after getting a more-than-safe 19-7 lead, brought in two pinch hitters for his power hitters in the ninth inning.

HERB VON HAGEN and Bob Downing led a 13-hit Miner attack that jumped on Arizona State's ace hurler Ed Bane. Bane, who struck out 14 Miner hitter in Phoenix two weeks ago, chalked up only eight and seemed to struggle throughout the contest.

Bane gave up consecutive doubles to Eloy Alvarado and Von Hagen in the second inning and a pair of two-baggers to Downing and Tim Peden in the third. Bane did last eight innings, but (1) the All-American hurler did not retire the Miners in order in any frame and (2) gave up two hits in five of the innings he worked.

"Seven runs is usually good enough to win," remarked Miner coach Andy Cohen. "We hit the ball really well and I was pleased with that. Arizona State hit us pretty bad, but the thing that hurt us was that we played bad ball in the field."

U.T.-EL PASO hurler Bob Knox, who entered the game with a 0.50 earned run average, left the contest in the fifth inning with a 2.26 mark.

Downing knocked in three Miner runs with a two-out double in the second and Von Hagen knocked in the same with a homer in the fifth inning.
