ALBUQUERQUE — Andy Cohen's U.T. El Paso baseball team winds up their '73 season today with a twinbill here against the University of New Mexico.

The Miners, who started UNM on a 12-game losing skein last month when they defeated the Lobos two of three times in El Paso, ended the UNM loss stretch last night by surrendering eight eighth inning runs and dropping a 15-10 decision.

"Bob Knox got tired in the sixth inning and I had to pull him," Cohen said. "In the eighth we used five different pitchers without much success. Glen Villareal hit the ball well for us, going 3-5 including a tremendous homerun and Joel Kuensler knocked in three runs."

Cohen admitted his team really wanted today's twinbill in order to conclude the season on a high note.
