

Arizona State Beats Miners

It was Closer Than 9-1 Says Cohen

This was one Andy Cohen admitted to be a little more painful than others.

"I thought we played much better than we did on the Arizona trip last weekend," Andy conceded after his Miners absorbed a 9-1 Western Athletic Conference setback to nationally ranked Arizona State. "I don't feel the score tells the whole story."

A six-run second inning, highlighted by a misplaced fly ball, paved the way to ASU's 38th victory in 44 games this year and evened UTEP's mark at 15-15. The Miners are now 0-4 in WAC play while ASU is the perfect reverse.

THE TWO TEAMS met at 1 p.m. today in Dudley Field for a twinbill with Roy Stringer and George Landreth hurling for the Miners.

Sophomore lefty Floyd Bannister posted his eighth win in nine decision for the Sun Devils in yesterday's tilt. The 6-

1, 180 Pierre, S.D. native scattered six hits, walking a trio and breezing 12. The Miners' only register off the ASU ace came in the fifth when Art Bravo doubled home David Nance from first after the UTEP shortstop had singled with two gone.

The Sun Devils pushed across their six second inning tallies after singles by Gary Allenson, Mike Colbern and R. J. Harrison. Miner starter Ron Wrobel, now 4-4 walked in one run in the rally and three scored when leftfielder Bob Alsup lost Clay Westlake's fly ball in a high sky and the ball went over the flyhawks's head for a bases clearing double.
