

BOB INGRAM

Nevada-LV may give up

WEEKENDERS. Quote of note: "We are going to have to start throwing bodies around."...What football coach said that?...It wasn't a football coach...It was

Kazor

Jack Hartman, Kansas State basketball coach...And basketball is supposed to be a non-contact game...Add nicknames: Old Cold Knights, Bugaters and Antelopes...They were formerly nicknames of athletic teams at Nebraska University...A Nebraska high school nickname: Bunnies of Benson of Omaha...Also Mississippi high school nickname: Urchins of Big Springs' East Union...While the U.T. El Paso Miners were bringing in the bacon last Saturday against Texas A&I, Don Haskins was getting rid of his...He had to leave the game at halftime on account of eating some bad bacon...Tom Humes, Cincinnati pitcher, was in the MGM Grand Motel in Las Vegas when the fire that killed so many people broke out...He was able to escape without injury...But he's demanded that the Reds always give him a lower level motel room on road trips...I hope he got a fire extinguisher for Christmas...And he should always keep the number of the fire department handy...Is "time of possession" a football statistic that means anything?...One writer says it doesn't. I guess time of possession is more important to a weekend golf hacker...The longer he keeps from losing his ball in the rough or keeps from hitting it into a lake, the better off he is in a financial way...And did you hear about the United States coach who didn't want to coach Canadian football because he thought any league using rouge would be too sissy for him?

NEVADA-LAS VEGAS' application for membership in the Western Athletic Conference has been on "hold" for quite awhile...The WAC further delayed acceptance of the Las Vegas school at a meeting in San Diego during the Holiday Bowl...The reason may have been the failure of the school "to put its own house in order."...Athletic director Jim Bowden of UTEP believes UNLV will now give up any hope of joining the WAC and withdraw its application...Tom Osborne of Nebraska isn't the first coach to come to the Sun Bowl and bar the El Paso press from practice...Charlie McClendon of LSU did it when he came here to play Stanford in 1977...Woody Hayes made a practice of closing the gate to everybody at Ohio State...His own wife may not have been able to get in...I kind of like the idea myself...It gets tiresome standing around for a couple of hours watching players run through their plays over and over again...Good advice to basketball players: Don't be a statistic on the highway but ring up some statistics on the court.

STEVE KAZOR, UTEP linebacker coach, will be interviewed for the Western New Mexico University head football coaching job...Advice to Wyoming which can't keep its coaches...Don't hire such good ones and work it so they don't start winning right away...Report says Fred Akers of Texas will be fired if his Texas Longhorns don't beat North Carolina in the Bluebonnet Bowl...I don't recall ever hearing of a coach getting fired after losing a bowl game...Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys makes sense when he says, "You don't pull quarterbacks like you do pitchers in baseball...You do something to a quarterback when you pull him...It's his game and he expects to win or lose it."...On that rumor of the threatened firing of Akers, Emory Bellard's name was thrown in as a possible successor...Just one more Sun Bowl coaching rumor, maybe...Andy Cohen's prayer at the Sun Bowl luncheon yesterday beseeched the good Lord to give coaches tranquility and serenity...Emory Bellard in his talk, asked, "how can a coach doing his duty have serenity and tranquility?"...A Nebraska writer here in rebuttal of Jarvis Redwine taunting an Oklahoma player in their game on Nov. 22, said, "Billy Sims of Oklahoma taunted our players twice in the 1979 game between the Sooners and Huskers and got by without a penalty."...At a press conference following the announcement that his school had been put on probation for recruiting irregularities, Arnold Weber, CU president, said: "We will try to follow NCAA rules but it is very, very difficult."...The vast majority of colleges seem to be able to follow them without great difficulty or there are a lot of cheaters...Add nicknames: Apple for Keith Green, Pan American's 6-9 center...On closing practice, I agree...It's always nice to watch the feat...Of players in their workouts...But it's very killing to my feet.
