

UTEP Partly Wipes Out 30-0 Defeat

"I've been waiting two years for this," Joe Pennies excitedly spoke. "They beat us over there 30-0 once and thought they owned us. This is only one but it's a start."

Ending a 14-game losing skein against perennial Western Athletic Conference power Arizona State yesterday the University of Texas at El Paso exploded for three eighth inning runs and a 7-5 triumph at Dudley Field.

The win was UTEP's 19th in 27 starts this year while ASU is now 25-14 on the year. The two teams continued their WAC opening series at 1 p.m. today with a twinbill.

"IT'S CERTAINLY satisfying," Miner coach Andy Cohen said. "Everyone wrote us off for dead before the year even started and even though we may not win the conference I think we'll be respectable. Let's face it, our kids have to have confidence after today."

It was confidence that ultimately won the game for the Orange. The type of confidence that allowed righthander Roy Stringer to throw his breaking ball even when behind on the count and keep ASU batters off balance all day.

"Roy threw very well," pitching coach Syd Cohen said. "He was aggressive and he got himself out of some tough jams. We've tried to tell our pitchers that they have to use that breaking pitch or else batters will just tee off on their fastball."

Stringer scattered seven Sun Devil hits in the fray while walking five and fanning five, enroute to winning his fifth game in as many decisions.

THE MINERS' three run eighth brought them back from a day long deficit that they'd fought to a standoff on one previous occasion. Bob Downing's two run first inning double knotted the score at 2-all but ASU struck for one in the fourth and two in the fifth before bidding farewell to homeplate.

A single run in the sixth and Herb Von Hagen's solo round-tripper in the seventh brought UTEP to within one.

Centerfielder Pennies got in on the revenge with a single to open the eighth and Cohen wiped the bunt sign off long enough to allow Stringer to follow with a base knock to center. Keith Rushing then kerplunked a single just inside the leftfield foul line to score Pennies and catcher Jim Brundage broke it up with a two run double to right center.

Reliever Dale Horvat suffered his fourth loss in five outings for the shocked Sun Devils.
