

Two Victories Will Put Smile On Andy's Face

Concluding his 12th season as baseball coach at the University of Texas at El Paso, Andy Cohen is just three games away from a summer vacation. It does not come as too much of a surprise to the still vigorous skipper that tomorrow and Saturday's season ending series with the University of New Mexico will determine just what type of summer it will be.

"I knew a month ago that our season would come down to this series," Cohen says. "We've won 24 games this year and none of these boys can walk away ashamed. I would, however, like to finish with a winning mark and at least tie my school record for most victories in a season, 26 (set in 1970)."

THE MINERS, currently 24-24 overall and 2-13 in the rugged Western Athletic Conference Southern Division, need at least a pair of wins in the three game finale to hit the 26 mark, break .500 for the year and escape top billing in the division's cellar. UNM is 22-23 overall and 3-12 in WAC play, a single game ahead of Cohen's corps.

Andy COHEN

Andy will open with righty Roy Stringer at noon tomorrow in the single game with the Lobos. Stringer is on a four game losing skein and now 6-4 on the year with the team's lowest earned run average, 3.90. Righties Jeff Hogan (3-5, 5.81) and Dan Modlinski (3-5, 7.06) will get the twinbill turns beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday. All games are at Dudley Field.

WHILE PITCHING stats on the Miner squad resemble quarterly profits for Exxon, Cohen's offense has inflicted an equal amount of damage on the opposition. In straight figures the Miners have actually out-hit their opposition in 48 games, though by the narrowest of margins — .2979 to .2974. Hits don't mean it all however, UTEP foes have outscored the Orange 360-284 primarily because Miner hurlers have issued 264 bases on balls to become the walking man's best friends.

"We've got a good club that has done a sound job this year," Andy observes. "Nothing would please me more than to close out at home with at least two wins. Maybe we'll need some luck but we're due some. We'll just have to wait and see."
