

Andy Cohen Will Emcee Sinai Dinner

Andy Cohen will be master of ceremonies at the Mount Sinai Sportsman's Award dinner to be held Wednesday night at Mount Sinai Temple.

The El Paso baseball veteran will replace Albert Schwartz, who has done the emceeing for the four previous dinners.

THE 1967 SPORTSMAN of the Year in El Paso will be announced and introduced at the dinner.

Gene Autry, famed cowboy singer and a top official of the California Angels, will be the chief speaker.

Tickets are now on sale at Temple Mount Sinai and from members of the Mount Sinai Men's Club.
