

BIG WELCOME — Under a big sign that said, "Welcome Rocky," Rocky Bridges, new manager of the Sun Kings arrived at El Paso International Airport.

He was met by a group of officials and a Sun Kings shirt tried on him for size. Left to right: Fred Herschleder, business manager of the Kings; John Phelan, El Paso Sports Assn. president and former general manager of the Kings; Andy Cohen, who'll be Rocky's coaching assistant here; Marvin Milkes, vice president of the California Angels and assistant to the general manager; Rocky; John Stanfill, general manager of the Kings; H. D. Fulwiler, former head of the El Paso Sports Assn., and Harry Elliott.

A reception for Rocky will be held at the Plaza Motor Hotel at 5 p.m., today.

New Mexico Slips to 8th Place—

Miners Climb to 5th In National Ratings

By FRED McMANE

UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. — It's taken nearly four years for the nation's coaches to reach an agreement on the best college basketball team, but it's taken more than 30 years for Florida to receive any court recognition at all.

Bruins have not won a game this season by less than nine points.

Princeton, which jumped into the top 10 for the first time in history last week, continued up the ladder by climbing two places to seventh after completely demolishing two Ivy League foes while Houston, University of

Meanwhile, Louisville, North Carolina and Vanderbilt all held on to the positions they occupied last week. The Cardinals, despite a loss to tiny Southern Illinois, continued in second place with a 14-1 record, the Tar Heels held third place with a 12-1 record.

Bart Starr Wins Rae Hickok Award

United Press International

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. — Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr, the National Football League's most valuable player and leading passer in 1966, was named winner of the December voting for the 17th annual S. Rae Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year award.