The Sleeper— Lady Wrestler Has Class Inside Or Outside Ring

By JIM SLEEPER

Evelyn Stevens is blonde, shapely and very feminine. That is, feminine until she steps into the ring as the Texas Women's Champion in professional wrestling circles.

The 24-year-old lass has been wrestling for five years and gives herself two more years before she retires. "I figure two more years is enough," Miss Stevens says. "I would not like to become muscle bound or masculine in any way."

'Too Light' Was Wrong Word

MASCULINE IS A WORD that is definitely not appropriate for the Tampa born wrestler who started wrestling at 110 pounds because she felt challenged. "They told me I was too light so I took the falls, slams and punishment. Then I came back for more and now I am doing well."

Well is an understatement. She suffered a defeat last night by a woman who was 20 pounds heavier. It was her first loss in a year. Hawaii, Alaska and practically every state in the Union has seen her perform.

EVELYN STEVENS

From Beautician to the Ring

MONEY FIRST, TRAVEL SECOND and competition third are the reasons she is in the wrestling game which has taken her 35,000 miles in the last year driving alone. A cheerleader in high school, Miss Stevens was a beautician before turning to the mat life and her blonde locks show it outside the ring. The 5-foot, 4-inch athlete weighs 130 pounds and has over 1000 wins. She is agile inside or outside of the ring.

Cagers to Put on Gloves

WHEN BASKETBALL SEASON is over Andy Cohen hopes to pick up two prospects for his Miners baseball team. The 6-foot, 8-inch Howard MacDonald likes the pitching route and flexible forward Mike Switzer is a glove man.

The Downtown Touchdown Club held their final meeting of the school term and honored both Fred Carr and Charley West who were presented All-American plaques by Eddie Mulens representing The Sporting News and Jack Devore representing Time magazine.
