DOPE Gives Help Again

IT'S EASY TODAY to lose sight of what is really happening in sports.

That's why the reader-conscious Department of Public Enlightenment (DOPE) periodically revisits Texas Western College.

Through the eye of publicist Eddie Mullens, the little old linemaker, TW remains unsullied by the changing world.

For example, TW began spring football this week.

Mullen reports:

Coach Bobby Dobbs knows how to get the job done quicker than a lighted cigarette will go through cellophane.

Dobbs in 1967 has more going for him than a con artist at a Gullible Joe's Convention.

Dobbs has been busier than Peter Cottontail at Easter reorganizing his staff, setting three spring games, etc.

During spring workouts, the Miners will make more moves than a championship checker tournament. Spring games are scheduled at Hobbs, N.M., Odessa, Tex., and in TW's own Sun Bowl.

Cocaptains are Charlie West, Billy Stevens and James Fountain, seniors who have seen more action than worn-out pinball machines and answered more challenges than a punch drunk boxer.

Like Trying to Write Under Water

The 1966 Miners had more hard luck than the guy trying to write underwater.

Dobbs' depth is as deceiving as a mountain lion in a pet shop, inasmuch as the material is greener than a gardener's thumb.

The offensive line was shorn of personnel by graduation, which leaves Dobbs and his staff as nervous as stock brokers in 1929.

It is obvious, however, that despite all, the Miners will throw the football. Heck, you can be as sure of that as you can that the buttered side of bread will hit the floor first.

Meanwhile, Texas Western's track team has been on the road more than a hobo.

Problems Smoothed Flatter Than . . .

But coach Wayne Vandenburg may have some personnel problems smoothed out flatter than a wash woman's ironing board.

And meanwhile, Texas Western's baseball team had a short respite last week. That naturally made coach Andy Cohen's club think the season is slower than water running uphill.

This week the pace steps up, and in all probability, the Miners will be busier than a hula dancer near a flame thrower.

As stated, unless TW is periodically revisited, it's easy today to lost sight of what is REALLY happening in sports.
