TWO WAY WRIGHT—Clyde Wright, center, is a baseball rarity being proficient both as a pitcher and outfielder. He is getting a close look from Sun King manager Chuck Tanner, left, and the director of the Angel farm system, Roland Hemond, in spring training. Wright broke into organized baseball late in June last season. He worked 10 games as a pitcher with Quad Cities and had a 7-2 record along with a 1.99 earned run average. He also had 88 strike-outs. As a hitter he appeared in 39 games and had a .255 average. The youngster from Tennessee stands 6-1, weighs 185 and throws left handed. The Sun Kings' advance ticket sale is now in progress in preparation for the opening series of the season here on Sunday, April 17, and Monday, April 18.

Split With Sooners Means TW Can Play With Anybody

By HERB HAMMER

In splitting a doubleheader with the Sooners of Oklahoma baseball team yesterday, 4-3 and 8-3, Texas Western has redeemed itself as a three-sport team and as a tough competitor in any conference according to Miner coach Andy Cohen.

"We have a young, inexperienced ball club," exclaimed Cohen, "and we're winning games with inexperience and home-town boys." Texas Western doesn't recruit out of town material like Oklahoma, Denver or New Mexico. We coaches know before we start the season that El Paso boys will be our only material and we just try to do our best."

ON THE MINER roster of 28 players, only five players are seniors and returning lettermen. There are five juniors and the remaining 18 are mostly freshmen. Of these players only 10 are from out of town, but according to Cohen, "none of the players were recruited. They just came here for an education and baseball is secondary."

In the first game yesterday, the youthful Miners outscored the Sooners by one run, 4-3, where the inexperienced pitching of Bill Sanders, a freshman, kept the Big 8 powerhouse's rallies to a minimum. Sanders gave up nine hits in seven innings and gained his second win of the early season.

"Sanders has pitched fine ball so far this season," added Cohen, "and I'm expecting him to continue pitching fine ball."

CHARLIE WEST, TW's fleet center fielder, made many key plays on defense in the first game and led the Miners' hitting attack with a triple and two singles.

"We usually produce runs in the first inning," Cohen said. "With his speed he can shake up any ball club once he gets on."

IN THE SECOND game the Oklahomans staged a 14 hit attack on three Miner pitchers and scored eight runs to the Miners' three.

The Sooner rallies came in the third, fifth and seventh innings where they bombed Miner starter Ralph Ornelas for eight hits before relief hurler Charlie Arcinega was called in.

ARCINEGA, who is both pitcher and infielder, made his first appearance on the mound in relief and walked four men and yielded two runs on three hits.

"We started the first inning off with a mental error," mentioned Cohen, "when our pitcher forgot to back up an outfield throw and they scored their first run. From then on Oklahoma seemed to find our range and hit us real bad."

THE MINERS threatened once in the sixth when Phil Ottone led off the inning with a 360-foot homer into left. It was his second round-tripper of the season. Bob Aguirre then singled to left but died on first as a sacrifice attempt by Raul Martinez failed and Arcinega finished the inning going down on strikes.

"These Oklahoma boys really hit the ball in their big rallies," said Cohen, "and flat out-played us the entire game." This team is the only team this year that has beaten us without any doubt, and they've done it twice. I'm hoping to even the series tomorrow."

The final of the four-game series is scheduled for today at 2 p.m. at Dudley Field.
