

Pavilion Rental Talks Open

County Commissioners opened negotiations today with Concessionaire Don Fertel over his proposed rental of the Warren Hoyt Pavilion at Ascarate Park.

Mr. Fertel, who already operates the Happy Village Marina at Ascarate, offered to lease the Pavilion for $50 a month, plus 10 per cent gross from receipts, and throw it open to the public for family-type entertainment.

HE ASKED a one-year contract, with two five-year options, and said his capital investment would be around $10,000. He plans to sell food and drinks at the Pavilion and also sponsor dances.

Commissioners indicated a favorable attitude on the proposals as soon as details of the contract can be worked out. It was generally agreed the contract would be similiar to that between the County and the Coliseum concessionaire.

In other action, Commissioner Emmett Larkin introduced a resolution proclaiming July 22 as "Sun King Booster Night", paying tribute to the baseball team as "a source of pride and entertainment to the Southwest."

THE COURT recognized John Phelan, Andy Cohen and Fred Herschleder representing the Sun Kings who were special visitors at the meeting.

Other business on today's agenda included approval of a public weighter's bond for Alex Albidres; approval of payment of the bill for the County's portion of the fireworks for the July 4 display at Ascarate Park; filing of the treasurer's quarterly report; remodeling of the County Tax Assessor-Collector's office, and acceptance of two subdivision plats.
