

Men Of Letters Know Their Pavaskovichs, Mckorskys

Hoernschemeyer 'Good Bet' For Jim

Paul
I can tell nothing by name if that is not his name. I call a bet on him and he'll be a big winner.

By JIM SCHLESINGER
Names interest me. Right now the names of baseball players and the cities, towns and hamlets from whence they came.

With the approach of the great man's birthday I mentioned to Gabe Paul the interesting fact that, as in the White House, there has been but one Lincoln in the big leagues.

Also there is no record that Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy, ever made it to the majors. Or Frank Merriwell, or any of the Rover Boys.

"For that matter," said Gabe, "there has never been a big leaguer with more than 13 letters in his name. You can look it up."

Now I didn't know that, and unless and until Gabe establishes some ground rules, I still don't.

Perhaps he wants me to waste a lot of time in research in retaliation for having written that when Gabe was general manager of the Reds he got rid of slugger Ted Kluszewski because the big fellow's name was too long to fit on the back of the narrow vest-like uniform shirt Gabe's players must wear.

NO BIG LEAGUER ever with a name longer than 13 letters. Hmm!

Leopold Christopher Hoernschemeyer, born in Gabe's beloved Cincinnati, played with the Cardinals, Yankees, Browns, Reds, Dodgers and Cubs from 1911 through 1939.

Then he was expelled from baseball for life along with Hal Chase for coming with gamblers and throwing games.

The case came to light when Hoernschemeyer sued the Cubs for his 1930 salary after being given his unconditional release because a bookie squealed when the player stopped payment on a $500 check because a game didn't turn out the way he bet it would.

However, Hoernschemeyer, a 16-letterman, played under the name of Lee Magee. Thus far Gabe is at least technically correct about that 13-letter business.

CASIMIR KWIECINSKI gets under the wire with a letter to spare. So does Ervin Pavlovich. But in both cases the long and short of it is simply this: which name counts?

Kwiecinski, veteran of many years with the White Sox, Senators, Browns and Athletics, was better known as Cas

Paul
I can tell nothing by name if that is not his name. I call a bet on him and he'll be a big winner.

Schlesinger
Names interest me. Right now the names of baseball players and the cities, towns and hamlets from whence they came.

With the approach of the great man's birthday I mentioned to Gabe Paul the interesting fact that, as in the White House, there has been but one Lincoln in the big leagues.

Also there is no record that Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy, ever made it to the majors. Or Frank Merriwell, or any of the Rover Boys.

"For that matter," said Gabe, "there has never been a big leaguer with more than 13 letters in his name. You can look it up."

Now I didn't know that, and unless and until Gabe establishes some ground rules, I still don't.

Perhaps he wants me to waste a lot of time in research in retaliation for having written that when Gabe was general manager of the Reds he got rid of slugger Ted Kluszewski because the big fellow's name was too long to fit on the back of the narrow vest-like uniform shirt Gabe's players must wear.

NO BIG LEAGUER ever with a name longer than 13 letters. Hmm!

Leopold Christopher Hoernschemeyer, born in Gabe's beloved Cincinnati, played with the Cardinals, Yankees, Browns, Reds, Dodgers and Cubs from 1911 through 1939.

Then he was expelled from baseball for life along with Hal Chase for coming with gamblers and throwing games.

The case came to light when Hoernschemeyer sued the Cubs for his 1930 salary after being given his unconditional release because a bookie squealed when the player stopped payment on a $500 check because a game didn't turn out the way he bet it would.

However, Hoernschemeyer, a 16-letterman, played under the name of Lee Magee. Thus far Gabe is at least technically correct about that 13-letter business.

CASIMIR KWIECINSKI gets under the wire with a letter to spare. So does Ervin Pavlovich. But in both cases the long and short of it is simply this: which name counts?

Kwiecinski, veteran of many years with the White Sox, Senators, Browns and Athletics, was better known as Cas

Akron Area Basketball Schedule

TODAY
LOCAL COLLEGIATE
Akron 1 at Baldwin-Woodward
Akron 1 at Fairmount

FRIDAY
LOCAL COLLEGIATE
Director at Akron

CITY SERIES
Kettering (14, 33) at Butler (24, 25)
Pataskala (14, 40) at Dayton (24, 25)
Franklin (14, 24) at Dayton (24, 25)
Cincinnati (14, 24) at Dayton (24, 25)
Cincinnati (14, 24) at Dayton (24, 25)

LOCAL SCHOLASTIC
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

METRO LEAGUE
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

SUBURBAN LEAGUE
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

WAYNE COUNTY
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

MEDINA COUNTY
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

CHIPPewa LEAGUE
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

PORTAGE COUNTY
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

FEDERAL LEAGUE
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

STARVA COUNTY
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

LOCAL COLLEGIATE
Akron 1 at Baldwin-Woodward
Akron 1 at Fairmount

FRIDAY
LOCAL COLLEGIATE
Director at Akron

CITY SERIES
Kettering (14, 33) at Butler (24, 25)
Pataskala (14, 40) at Dayton (24, 25)
Franklin (14, 24) at Dayton (24, 25)
Cincinnati (14, 24) at Dayton (24, 25)
Cincinnati (14, 24) at Dayton (24, 25)

LOCAL SCHOLASTIC
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

METRO LEAGUE
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

SUBURBAN LEAGUE
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

WAYNE COUNTY
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

MEDINA COUNTY
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

CHIPPewa LEAGUE
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

PORTAGE COUNTY
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

FEDERAL LEAGUE
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

STARVA COUNTY
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent
Cuyahoga Falls (14, 24) at St. Vincent

Paul
I can tell nothing by name if that is not his name. I call a bet on him and he'll be a big winner.

Schlesinger
Names interest me. Right now the names of baseball players and the cities, towns and hamlets from whence they came.

With the approach of the great man's birthday I mentioned to Gabe Paul the interesting fact that, as in the White House, there has been but one Lincoln in the big leagues.

Also there is no record that Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy, ever made it to the majors. Or Frank Merriwell, or any of the Rover Boys.

"For that matter," said Gabe, "there has never been a big leaguer with more than 13 letters in his name. You can look it up."

Now I didn't know that, and unless and until Gabe establishes some ground rules, I still don't.

Perhaps he wants me to waste a lot of time in research in retaliation for having written that when Gabe was general manager of the Reds he got rid of slugger Ted Kluszewski because the big fellow's name was too long to fit on the back of the narrow vest-like uniform shirt Gabe's players must wear.

NO BIG LEAGUER ever with a name longer than 13 letters. Hmm!

Leopold Christopher Hoernschemeyer, born in Gabe's beloved Cincinnati, played with the Cardinals, Yankees, Browns, Reds, Dodgers and Cubs from 1911 through 1939.

Then he was expelled from baseball for life along with Hal Chase for coming with gamblers and throwing games.

The case came to light when Hoernschemeyer sued the Cubs for his 1930 salary after being given his unconditional release because a bookie squealed when the player stopped payment on a $500 check because a game didn't turn out the way he bet it would.

However, Hoernschemeyer, a 16-letterman, played under the name of Lee Magee. Thus far Gabe is at least technically correct about that 13-letter business.

CASIMIR KWIECINSKI gets under the wire with a letter to spare. So does Ervin Pavlovich. But in both cases the long and short of it is simply this: which name counts?

Kwiecinski, veteran of many years with the White Sox, Senators, Browns and Athletics, was better known as Cas

Paul
I can tell nothing by name if that is not his name. I call a bet on him and he'll be a big winner.

Schlesinger
Names interest me. Right now the names of baseball players and the cities, towns and hamlets from whence they came.

With the approach of the great man's birthday I mentioned to Gabe Paul the interesting fact that, as in the White House, there has been but one Lincoln in the big leagues.

Also there is no record that Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy, ever made it to the majors. Or Frank Merriwell, or any of the Rover Boys.

"For that matter," said Gabe, "there has never been a big leaguer with more than 13 letters in his name. You can look it up."

Now I didn't know that, and unless and until Gabe establishes some ground rules, I still don't.

Perhaps he wants me to waste a lot of time in research in retaliation for having written that when Gabe was general manager of the Reds he got rid of slugger Ted Kluszewski because the big fellow's name was too long to fit on the back of the narrow vest-like uniform shirt Gabe's players must wear.

NO BIG LEAGUER ever with a name longer than 13 letters. Hmm!

Leopold Christopher Hoernschemeyer, born in Gabe's beloved Cincinnati, played with the Cardinals, Yankees, Browns, Reds, Dodgers and Cubs from 1911 through 1939.

Then he was expelled from baseball for life along with Hal Chase for coming with gamblers and throwing games.

The case came to light when Hoernschemeyer sued the Cubs for his 1930 salary after being given his unconditional release because a bookie squealed when the player stopped payment on a $500 check because a game didn't turn out the way he bet it would.

However, Hoernschemeyer, a 16-letterman, played under the name of Lee Magee. Thus far Gabe is at least technically correct about that 13-letter business.

CASIMIR KWIECINSKI gets under the wire with a letter to spare. So does Ervin Pavlovich. But in both cases the long and short of it is simply this: which name counts?

Kwiecinski, veteran of many years with the White Sox, Senators, Browns and Athletics, was better known as Cas

Racing Results

From Major Tracks

Paul
I can tell nothing by name if that is not his name. I call a bet on him and he'll be a big winner.

Schlesinger
Names interest me. Right now the names of baseball players and the cities, towns and hamlets from whence they came.

With the approach of the great man's birthday I mentioned to Gabe Paul the interesting fact that, as in the White House, there has been but one Lincoln in the big leagues.

Also there is no record that Jack Armstrong, the All-American boy, ever made it to the majors. Or Frank Merriwell, or any of the Rover Boys.

"For that matter," said Gabe, "there has never been a big leaguer with more than 13 letters in his name. You can look it up."

Now I didn't know that, and unless and until Gabe establishes some ground rules, I still don't.

Perhaps he wants me to waste a lot of time in research in retaliation for having written that when Gabe was general manager of the Reds he got rid of slugger Ted Kluszewski because the big fellow's name was too long to fit on the back of the narrow vest-like uniform shirt Gabe's players must wear.

NO BIG LEAGUER ever with a name longer than 13 letters. Hmm!

Leopold Christopher Hoernschemeyer, born in Gabe's beloved Cincinnati, played with the Cardinals, Yankees, Browns, Reds, Dodgers and Cubs from 1911 through 1939.

Then he was expelled from baseball for life along with Hal Chase for coming with gamblers and throwing games.

The case came to light when Hoernschemeyer sued the Cubs for his 1930 salary after being given his unconditional release because a bookie squealed when the player stopped payment on a $500 check because a game didn't turn out the way he bet it would.

However, Hoernschemeyer, a 16-letterman, played under the name of Lee Magee. Thus far Gabe is at least technically correct about that 13-letter business.

CASIMIR KWIECINSKI gets under the wire with a letter to spare. So does Ervin Pavlovich. But in both cases the long and short of it is simply this: which name counts?

Kwiecinski, veteran of many years with the White Sox, Senators, Browns and Athletics, was better known as Cas

State-Wide Drag Circuit Is Proposed

WEST SALEM — Hal Buford, who has leased Dragway 42 for the coming season, today proposed a state-wide circuit for drag racers.

Buford, who makes his home here, announced that a meeting of Ohio drag strip owners and drivers will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Medina Holiday Inn to discuss the circuit.

HE BELIEVES the circuit would permit strips to offer variety in their week-to-week programs and could also increase purses for drivers.

Buford resigned as general manager at Dragway 42 last year but has now formed a group to lease the double-track facility from Dragway 42 Corporation.

He will serve as general manager with Gerald Klineck acting as director of events. Mrs. Marg Swartz handling bookkeeping and Larry Miller advertising and publicity. Klineck is from Lodi, Mrs. Swartz from West Salem and Miller from Orrville.

Ohioan Named Aide At Miami

MIAMI — Neil Schmidt, backfield coach at Florida State University, was hired Monday as an assistant football coach at the University of Miami.

Schmidt, a Bluffton, Ohio native, played offensive and defensive halfback at Purdue

Cage Refs Meet

Basketball officials assigned to work the high school tournament game must attend a rules interpretation meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Colonial Lanes. The clinic, conducted by the Ohio High School Athletic Association, will be handled by Robert Brown.

Compare This Price!

Guaranteed 2 years or 20,000 miles, whichever comes first. There is no charge in case of theft.

SHOCKS?
COMPARE 2/$11.88
THIS PRICE!

B.F. Goodrich

Mid-Winter Sale!

SAVE ON PAIRS OF BFG'S BIGGEST-SELLING TIRE

2 for $35

Custom Long Miler with 4-Ply Nylon Cord

ALL SIZES REDUCED!

MOST SMALL CARS	MOST MEDIUM CARS	MOST LARGER CARS
2 for $36.95	2 for $41.30	2 for $47.40

NO MONEY DOWN

Guarantee

It's The Radial Age!

BFG's SILVERTOWN RADIAL 990

will travel 5,000, 10,000, even 15,000 miles farther than the tires that came on new cars.

The straight-talk tire people. B.F. Goodrich

CAA-1A

B. F. GOODRICH 30 W. Exchange Phone 434-2101	B. F. GOODRICH 440 So. High St. Phone 434-2101	B. F. GOODRICH 2147 East Phone 745-134
B. F. GOODRICH 122 N. Meridian Phone 296-3811	B. F. GOODRICH 600 W. Tuscarawas Phone 745-3176	B. F. GOODRICH 420 E. Liberty Phone 264-6701