

Errors Cushion 6-3 UTEP Win

Can't Win Close Ones; Miners, AF Play Pair

The New Mexico Lobos, having problems winning the close ones, closed out their 3-game series with a double header against University of El Paso-Texas Western today before making plans for a week-ending double bill Saturday afternoon against the Air Force Academy.

Illinois opens a 9-game, 6-day series at the UNM diamond Monday.

Madcap Eighth

A trio of errors in a madcap eighth inning broke a 3-3 tie that led the Miners to a 6-3 triumph in the series opener yesterday.

Lobo coach Bob Leigh had Ralph Sallee and Cliff Fowler set to face the Miners today, but invading coach Andy Cohen was sure only of Jesse Lujan as a starting pitcher because the UTEP nine used six pitchers Tuesday when the Miners were beaten by Denver University, 12-7.

"Scott Lund will be one of my pitchers Saturday and Tracy Laub the other," Leigh said. "Lund has been doing a fine job in relief. He deserves a starting spot."

The Lobos put all their scoring punch into a 3-run third inning when Mike McLaughlin singled, took second on a wild pitch and scored on pitcher Jim Koch's single. Another single by Dick Baldizan set up Mike Johnson's 2-run double.

Big Eighth

The Miners picked up single runs in the first and third—a double by Juan Sandoval followed by Charlie West's single in the opening frame; plus a triple by West and a single by Danny Blanco in the third.

The El Paso nine contributed only one single in the 2-run eighth. A walk, two errors by Wilf Chavez, another miscue by Baldizan and a passed ball figured in the error-packed scoring.

The Miners used a single, a sacrifice, an infield out and a wild pitch to score the tying run in the seventh and followed the 2-run eighth with an insurance tally in the ninth when winning pitcher Lynn Hunt singled, then circled the bases on Blanco's double.
