Former Fargoan, George Rulon, the American Legion baseball director, was in Houston for the college baseball meetings. He talked with Andy Cohen, former Eau Claire manager, who was a popular Northern League figure. Andy is in his fifth year as baseball coach at Texas Western in his home town of El Paso. George also talked with LeRoy King, who addressed the Elks high school football banquet here in November, and Harold (Pinky) Kraft, University of North Dakota baseball coach and president of the Association of North Dakota Amateur Baseball Leagues, who was named a district director by the college baseball coaches.

Vern Benson, former Winnipeg manager, who was with Johnny Keane as a coach with the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees, was a pallbearer at Keane's funeral in Houston Monday. Another pallbearer was Clark Nealon, sports editor of the Houston Post, who was scheduled to come to Fargo-Moorhead in 1934 with Jack Knight as a player in the Northern League.

Kenny Stabler, the Alabama football quarterback, was signed by the New York Yankees as a southpaw pitching prospect in the free agent draft in June. The Yankees no longer have a claim to his services, and he may be drafted by one of the pro football leagues.

The Minnesota State High School League may vote on March 17 on a proposal to divide track and field competition into three classifications.
