

DIAMOND FETE NOW SELLOUT

The Baseball Boosters' dinner is running true to form—as usual it's a sell-out.

George Brophy, general manager of the Minneapolis Baseball club, made that announcement this morning with more than 800 tickets sold for the 13th annual event which is scheduled for the Pick-Nic-ollet hotel Monday night.

Meanwhile, guest of honor Andy Cohen and Charlie Wagner, Red Sox assistant farm director, were due to arrive tonight.
