

Pros Never Matched Gophers' Shooting-Kunda

Family More Important, Jensen Quits Baseball

BOSTON, Mass.—The Boston Red Sox announced today that outfielder Jackie Jensen has decided to retire from baseball.

A Red Sox spokesman said Jensen gave the word to general manager Bucky Harris Monday.

Jensen, the American league's most valuable player in 1958, did not spoke to him. However, before the close of last season Jensen said he was considering quitting and would think it over during the winter.

"He was sent a very fine contract but that made no difference apparently," said the Sox spokesman. The Red Sox do not disclose contract figures, although it was estimated at more than $40,000.

Jensen has said the decision was his and he was unable to join him in Boston.

separated from his wife and three children. Their home is in Nevada. Jackie is married to Zoe Ann Olson, former Olympic diving champion. Their third child was born last year and his wife was unable to join him in Boston.

Jensen had been with the Red Sox for six years. The Sox obtained him from the Washington Senators in a trade at the start of the 1954 season.

A great football player at the University of California, Jensen went into baseball with Oakland of the Pacific Coast league in 1949. He was brought up to the majors by the New York Yankees in 1950. He was with them until 1952 when he went to Washington.

Jensen's best batting average was .313 in 1956. He gained the most valuable player award in 1958 when he batted .296 and hit 35 home runs.

Last year he led the league in runs batted in with 112. During his six years with the Red Sox he drove in more runs than any other player in the big leagues. He had more than 100 or more every year except when he drove in 97.

Jensen was quoted as saying he had decided he would rather be with his family than play baseball. Jensen apparently will make his Oakland restaurant his full time instead of his part time job.

Jensen was quoted as saying he had decided he would rather be with his family than play baseball. Jensen apparently will make his Oakland restaurant his full time instead of his part time job.

Jensen was quoted as saying he had decided he would rather be with his family than play baseball. Jensen apparently will make his Oakland restaurant his full time instead of his part time job.

JACKIE JENSEN
Leaves Red Sox

'U' Hits 72% at Iowa for 2nd Place

BIG TEN STANDINGS

Team	W	L	Pct.
Minnesota	10	2	.667
Illinois	9	3	.600
Nebraska	8	4	.500
Wisconsin	7	5	.438
Michigan	6	6	.333
Indiana	5	7	.261
Purdue	4	8	.167
Ohio State	3	9	.111
Iowa	2	10	.000

BY DICK GORDON
Minneapolis Star Staff Writer
Mark down Jan. 25, 1960, as a night to remember.

That was the date John Kundla's basketball Gophers defied the odds with 72 percent field goal shooting the likes of which their coach had never seen equalled anywhere.

Even the Lakers or the other pros never shot like that, especially from the outside," said the ex-professional as he returned home from Iowa City today with his "new" Gophers.

In addition to winning their "new" last year's title from Iowa for second place in the Big Ten with an 87-72 triumph, the Kundla cagers also set a conference record which may stand for years. (The old mark of 63 per cent shooting was set by Indiana last year.)

Scored their first sweep over Iowa since 1949 and their first triumph at Hawkeyeville since 1955. They also were the first team to win there this season.

Hit the point high of the Kundla regime and also piled up the most points any Gopher outfit ever counted at Iowa City. And in the process they took a low of 47 shots.

Romped to a 49-32 cushion at the half without the benefit of a single tally from Capt. Ron Johnson, the 6'7 center who had been averaging nearly 20 points a game.

Got the schedule the rest of the way in their favor. While unbeaten Ohio State, idle last night, remains the solid title choice with a 4-0 league record against Minnesota's 4-2. The Buckeyes have six of their remaining games away from home.

On the other hand, of the eight games the Gophers have left, five will be at Williams arena, including one with last-place Wisconsin here Saturday night.

Had an incredible 82 percent field goal mark from their guards, Paul Lehman, Mario Miller and Bob Grigson contributed 41 points to the cause, most of them while the game was being broken open in the first half.

Most of the Miller and Lehman efforts, and even some by 21-pointer Ray Cronk, were from just outside the circle in a complete vindication of earlier Kundla claims.

Only last week he had said, "We're a good shooting team even though we haven't shot much from the outside so far." And just yesterday he had said this game will prove "whether we're men or not."

But even Kundla couldn't foresee that the Big Ten's best shooting team would raise its season average to 51 percent in an all-around "best" Gopher game that didn't give the Hawkeyes a look-in.

On defense, Johnson limited the Hawkeye ace, Don Nelson, to three baskets and blocked shots with remarkable timing. Cronk was just as tough a defender as their blocks set up fast break time and again.

The Hawkeye sagging defense on Johnson and a gang-up on the Gopher inside pattern opened up the outside. So when Lehman and Miller kept hitting Minnesota breezed.

It was nip and tuck only in the first few minutes. Then, from a narrow 8-6 lead, the Gophers came through with 16 straight points while blanketing the Hawkeyes for a full five minutes.

Iowa, which shot 34 percent for the night, never got back in the game.

With 12 minutes left the winners were in front 63-38 and Iowa never got closer than 13 points, only complaining that when the reserves came near the finish.

State May Boost Basketball Lead
State, led by Whitney Johnson and Tom Rietrich, will be out to increase its one game Park Classic basketball lead tonight when it meets lowly Freddie's at South High at 7 p.m.

Sokol must defend defending champion Mac and Coy and they are in the city race.

CHARLES JOHNSON'S Lowdown on Sports

★ MIAMI BEACH, FLA.—The National Football league's six-day deadlock over the election of a new commissioner has reached the stage where it is almost certain that the club owners eventually will go home without doing a single thing of importance.

In our opinion it means that the 12 owners will not name a commissioner, and furthermore there will be no consideration of expansion or a package television deal.

When an all-day caucus Monday with George Halas as arbitrator or peacemaker failed it became almost a cinch that this will develop into the worst do-nothing session that any major sport ever has known.

While Minnesota, still standing by in the lobby, had hoped that they could at least salvage a written agreement to a 1961 franchise they probably will go home empty-handed.

We hope this guess is wrong but we don't see how it can be anything but this.

The seven stalwart backers of Marshall Leach of San Francisco as commissioner have refused to budge on their candidate. It is reported this group tried to get abate Halas to deliver two votes for their commissioner in return for their support for expansion. This was quickly denied on all sides.

Halas already had 10 votes for expansion before this meeting got under way, but he is supposed to have taken the proposal of the Leach crowd to the four dissenters—Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Washington. After hours of negotiating, the only word from this minority was "no deal."

It must be said that an honest effort was made to break the deadlock yesterday for the first time, but results were nil.

What happens now?

★ THOSE WHO SEEM TO KNOW—and we have talked to both sides—say this will be the eventual upshot:

Without a commissioner, Austin Gurnel will continue as the boss as provided by the league constitution. That means that unless they recess this meeting for 30 days or so, expansion and the new television deal will not come before the 12 magnates.

No one can understand why the Leach backers will not offer a compromise candidate. The four minority voters have tossed four or five names into the stalemate, but with no one joining their choice.

It was reported that Halas, eager to make good his promises to Minneapolis-St. Paul and Dallas for franchises in 1960 or 1961, tried to get this matter before the meeting last night by bypassing the troublesome commissioner problem. He apparently was rebuffed.

Halas may try this again today. Voting for a boss continued with no changes at adjournment last night.

The NFL may remain here indefinitely, but even the most optimistic see no chance of action on the matters that are the most important reasons for being here.

Switch of Cardinals
★ THERE HAS BEEN QUITE A LOT of talk that the club owners may talk the Walter Wolfner family into moving its Chicago Cardinals to St. Louis for play in 1960.

The league is so tired of the poor attendance in Chicago that some members would pay the Wolfners a sizable bonus to move anywhere.

The group is that the Wolfners want a guarantee of one million dollars, backed by the league at $100,000 a year, to accept this deal.

Some owners feel that this would be a good investment for the NFL because the increased attendance in St. Louis or any other city would more than pay off the one million dollar bonus.

In connection with this gossip, someone mentioned that Dallas might be the 1960 home of the Cardinals. The Texas crowd, still here, says it's a fair tale and wouldn't be interested under any consideration.

Fundamentals Bring Shaw 18-6 Year

Chisox Hurler Credits Lopez and Berres

BY BOB BEERE
Minneapolis Star Staff Writer

Bob Shaw, the Chicago White Sox pitcher, is a handsome young man with a smooth a delivery on the speaking platform as he has on the mound.

The capacity crowd of more than 800 at the 13th annual Baseball Boosters' dinner at the Pick-Nic Hotel learned that Monday night.

Shaw also knows what put the frosting on his pitching cake in the shape of an 18-6 record and a World Series victory in 1959. And he has tens to put the credit where it belongs.

"It goes," he declared, "to Al Lopez (White Sox manager) and Ray Berres (White Sox coach). Ray worked with me a lot. It wasn't complicated, just a matter of learning and using a few simple fundamentals."

"I'd never won more than 10 games a season in my life except for a 14-6 record in the Cuban league one winter until I went to the Sox and Lopez and Berres went to work on me."

The two points they stressed were position and delivery. They taught me to stand with my left shoulder toward the plate and showed me how it enabled me to get more power in my pitches. They also taught me to reach up and always throw with a downward motion. This enabled me to keep the ball low and I have to keep it low to be effective. In fact, nearly all pitchers do today."

Shaw went on to point out that such a delivery puts less strain on the arm.

"I was 223 pounds in 47 games last year and had no arm trouble," he said. "Look at Earl Wynn, and Gerry Staley, still top big league pitchers at 40."

"That's no accident. They practice the same things I have learned."

"Mel Harder of Cleveland has always taught this system and that's why the Indians always have good pitching and why the White Sox are still going strong. You'll find all of them pitch fundamentally correct. That's why their arms last."

Shaw has been riding the basquet circuit for the Chicago Sox this winter, helping in Bill Vecek's ticket selling campaign.

"Trades have helped us along but he is the thing next season," he says. "And we'll have some people waiting us. The way the ticket drive is going we might draw two million."

While tall Bob was making a hit with the fans last night, several others also counted particularly guest of honor Andy Cohen and his next season. "And we'll have some people waiting us. The way the ticket drive is going we might draw two million."

The Yankees' Bill Skowron reported his broken wrist had healed, his back was in fine shape and he was "hoping for that big year and that big raise" in 1960.

Jack Onton and Rip Collins starred in the story telling on the program presented by the American Association president Dick Doherty. Miller general manager George Brumby and St. Paul president Mel Jones, Chief R. Peterson,

AT BASEBALL BOOSTERS' DINNER, LEFT TO RIGHT, RIP COLLINS, BEN BERGER AND ANDY COHEN. Hockey owner lights cigar for guest of honor as old time star looks on at Nicollet gathering.

HOW MILLER AND LEHMAN SCORED Double Block Sets Up 'U' Guards

(Another in post-game series on Minnesota basketball by coach John Kundla.)

BY JOHN KUNDLA
Minnesota basketball coach

We figured before the game that Iowa would sag its defense on Ron Johnson. So we planned on working our inside pattern in this diagram. Lehman would bring the ball up and pass in to Ray Cronk. If it was our idea to try as much outside shooting. However, after Paul Lehman went into the pivot and got a couple of early baskets, Iowa started sagging on Lehman, too, and then opened up the outside.

So we started using screens to set up 20-footers by Lehman and Mario Miller from just outside the circle.

That gave him the benefit of a double block from Ray and Ron, which helped account for that high percentage of shooting (9 for 12 by Lehman, 8 for 9 by Miller).

Of course, we worked the play from the other side, too, with Johnson moving over the left of the circle. On that play Miller would pass to Dick Erickson and then to the right, he took a return pass from Cronk.

That gave him the benefit of a double block from Ray and Ron, which helped account for that high percentage of shooting (9 for 12 by Lehman, 8 for 9 by Miller).

Of course, we worked the play from the other side, too, with Johnson moving over the left of the circle. On that play Miller would pass to Dick Erickson and then to the right, he took a return pass from Cronk.

That gave him the benefit of a double block from Ray and Ron, which helped account for that high percentage of shooting (9 for 12 by Lehman, 8 for 9 by Miller).

Of course, we worked the play from the other

'No Point' Ron Never as Happy

WE WERE OUT OF OUR HEADS--MILLER

Glen Reed, Minnesota assistant basketball coach, said he never saw Ron Johnson as happy as when the Gophers' leading scorer was "horrorclobbered" at the half while his team built up a 40-32 lead over Iowa.

"When the team is going like that, who cares how much you score?" said the Minnesota captain who had been averaging 19.5 a game.

At Iowa Ron wound up with 13 while the guards, Mario Miller and Paul Lehman, and Ray Cronk showed the way on a combined total 27 points.

"They had no guard big enough to cover Paul," said Miller, "and he was hitting that jump shot all night. Then I hit my first couple shots and got my confidence. I guess we were a little out of our heads."

"Everything worked," said coach John Kundla as he stepped off the train. "Certainly it was our best game. Ron and Cronk were terrific on defense, too. And we never tried any poor shots."

"We really were," said this one after the way we threw away the Northwest defense, too. And we never tried any poor shots."

"They just never had any defense, too. And we never tried any poor shots."

Minnesota's last victory over Iowa was 61, 1955, by St. Michael's.

Glen Reed, Minnesota assistant basketball coach, said he never saw Ron Johnson as happy as when the Gophers' leading scorer was "horrorclobbered" at the half while his team built up a 40-32 lead over Iowa.

"When the team is going like that, who cares how much you score?" said the Minnesota captain who had been averaging 19.5 a game.

At Iowa Ron wound up with 13 while the guards, Mario Miller and Paul Lehman, and Ray Cronk showed the way on a combined total 27 points.

"They had no guard big enough to cover Paul," said Miller, "and he was hitting that jump shot all night. Then I hit my first couple shots and got my confidence. I guess we were a little out of our heads."

"Everything worked," said coach John Kundla as he stepped off the train. "Certainly it was our best game. Ron and Cronk were terrific on defense, too. And we never tried any poor shots."

"We really were," said this one after the way we threw away the Northwest defense, too. And we never tried any poor shots."

"They just never had any defense, too. And we never tried any poor shots."

Minnesota's last victory over Iowa was 61, 1955, by St. Michael's.

Dischinger, Lucas Lead

CHICAGO—Up—Gophers' Jerry Dischinger and Purdue and Jerry Lucas of Ohio State remain one-two in the Big Ten all-games basketball scoring race.

Dischinger has 375 points in 14 games for a 26.8 average. Lucas is close behind with 357 points in 13 games and a 27.4 average. Lucas might very well be leading had he not sat out OSU's 109-38 rout over Delaware because of an injured ankle.

Minnesota senior Ron Johnson holds third place with 312 points in 16 games for a 19.5 average.

The leaders:

"Everything worked," said coach John Kundla as he stepped off the train. "Certainly it was our best game. Ron and Cronk were terrific on defense, too. And we never tried any poor shots."

"We really were," said this one after the way we threw away the Northwest defense, too. And we never tried any poor shots."

"They just never had any defense, too. And we never tried any poor shots."

Minnesota's last victory over Iowa was 61, 1955, by St. Michael's.

TAG MATCH MAT FEATURE

Butch Levy and Frank Conrad take on Tiny Mills and Stan Kowalski tonight in the tag-team feature of a wrestling card at the Minneapolis auditorium.

The program starts at 8:30 p.m. Supporting matches include Ham Schmidt vs. Floyd Ude, Roy McClary vs. Bob Cole and The Jans vs. Lew Whitson.

State May Boost Basketball Lead
State, led by Whitney Johnson and Tom Rietrich, will be out to increase its one game Park Classic basketball lead tonight when it meets lowly Freddie's at South High at 7 p.m.

Sokol must defend defending champion Mac and Coy and they are in the city race.

State May Boost Basketball Lead
State, led by Whitney Johnson and Tom Rietrich, will be out to increase its one game Park Classic basketball lead tonight when it meets lowly Freddie's at South High at 7 p.m.

Sokol must defend defending champion Mac and Coy and they are in the city race.

State May Boost Basketball Lead
State, led by Whitney Johnson and Tom Rietrich, will be out to increase its one game Park Classic basketball lead tonight when it meets lowly Freddie's at South High at 7 p.m.

Sokol must defend defending champion Mac and Coy and they are in the city race.