Leaving here Friday are Pam and John Bucklin, Becky Patterson, Steve, Barrie and Sally Lewers, Jim Ronald, Margee Henkel, Rick Giertson, James Thomas, Barbara Hansen, Janet Leck and Carol Kessler. Accompanying them are coach and Mrs. Jerry Flaedland, Mr. and Mrs. John Bucklin and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Patterson.

THE MINNEAPOLIS Lakers plane, now out of the Iowa cornfield, may be sold. President Bob Short is considering the transaction although he is not convinced it would be a good deal. "Frankly, though, I'm afraid of public opinion just in case something similar would happen again," he said.

The trip out of the cornfield cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. "That was the most expensive corn in Iowa," ruefully added Short.

AN IMPORTANT Continental Baseball league meeting is scheduled for New York on Friday. Expected announcement is that Buffalo is the final city added to the setup . . . Meanwhile in Houston, Texas, president Branch Rickey is dickering for the American Association territorial rights. Houston president Marty Marion has placed a $492,500 figure on the club's rights, but Continental operators have laughed it off.

The St. Louis Cardinals sold the Buffs to Marion and Milton Fischmann of St. Louis in 1958 for $100,000. They in turn sold 80 per cent of their holdings to a South Texas syndicate last year.

The Continental people hint they'll move to Montreal and skip Houston unless the price is right.

CINCY STAYS NO. 1 IN U.S.

From the Star Sports Wires

Cincinnati remained the No. 1 basketball team in the nation again this week as both the Associated Press and United Press International released their ratings today.

But they disagreed on second, third and fourth place ratings, finally uniting on Ohio State as fifth. Sports writers and broadcasters pick the Associated Press ratings, a board of coaches the United Press International list.

Teleprompter Head Denies

QUOTES from the Baseball Boosters party: "In this era of smear paint hate I'm the proudest man in the United States to be honored here tonight" . . . Andy Cohen, accepting the Honored Man award.

"Gene Mauch (absent due to illness) is a big leaguer all the way. Your Miller manager is a great checker player. He knows all the moves" . . . Jack Onslow of the Boston Red Sox.

"In 1935 they told me that if I couldn't run better I'd be dropped from baseball. For three days I went through running exercises out in the outfield. I increased my speed four steps" . . . Enos Slaughter, 25-year veteran and now Houston player-manager.

"The Los Angeles Coliseum left field is so short that if a third baseman wanted to play deep he'd have to buy a reserved seat" . . . Bob Shaw, Chicago White Sox pitcher.
