Mathews Named To 'Take Charge'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Hard-hitting Eddie Mathews has a new job with the Milwaukee Braves today.

Manager Charlie Dressen named him as the "take charge guy" on defense in the infield Thursday night.

Dressen said that when he played third base he was the "police-man" of the infield and he wanted Mathews "to do the same for us."

Red Schoendienst, veteran second baseman who had made a comeback after being out a year with tuberculosis was the infield director in 1958 but Dressen believes "he's got more things to do and look out for at second base."

Commented catcher Del Crandall: "I think Eddie is a leader. He isn't what you call a hollerer guy, but he's a leader just the same — he leads by example and is in there playing hard all the time."

"The guy has an all-around personality that commands respect and he's sacrificed himself personally more than once for the good of the club."

The Braves ran into temporary manager Andy Cohen and his Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night, and as a result Cohen may go down as baseball's only unbeaten manager.

Cohen took over for one day Thursday when Manager Eddie Sawyer quit. He won a 10th inning strategy battle with Milwaukee boss Charlie Dressen.

Cohen was scheduled to be relieved today by the Phils' new manager, Gene Mauch of Minneapolis.

Outfielder Bobby Del Greco scored the winning run in the 10th after earlier contributions of a two-run homer and a run-scoring double.

Del Greco walked to open the extra inning, then stole second. After Catcher Jim Coker flied out, the brain trusts of both teams went into action.

Cohen sent right-hand nitter Ted Lepcio to bat for pitcher Don Cardwell against southpaw reliever Juan Pizarro. Dressen countered with pitcher Bob Giggie, a right hander, so Cohen subbed John Callison, a left-hand swinger, for Lepcio.

Callison was walked intentionally. Joe Koppe, who had struck out in three previous trips to the plate, singled off shortstop Johnny Logan's glove, scoring Del Greco with the winning run.

Cardwell came on in the fifth inning. In addition to pitching fine ball, he unloaded the third home run of his major league career in the sixth to tie the score at 4-4.

Milwaukee got off to an early three-run lead in the first inning off Curt Simmons.

In the second, an error and a single by Red Schoendienst — first for the Redhead since returning to the majors after his tuberculosis siege — was the end of Simmons. Rube Gomez came on and retired the side.

Cardwell gave the Braves their final run on Logan's single and Aaron's center field triple in the fifth.

The Phils got a run off starter Carl Willey in the second on Harry Anderson's single and Del Greco's double, then tied the score and sent Willey to the showers in the fifth when Anderson singled, Del Greco homered and Cardwell followed with his four-base blow that tied the score.
