

Injuries hit Miners at ASU

Injuries hit the UTEP Miners baseball team during their Arizona trip and although the Miners came home hurting, they are not as bad off as they could have been.

Arizona State beat the Miners twice, the first game, a 21-4 rout. "We got beat badly the first game and we were beset by injuries the second game," said coach Andy Cohen.

"In the second game, Jerry Walker was pitching a fine game — it was 0-0 when he was hit by a line drive on his knee cap and had to leave.

"Bill Roberts, our third baseman, tore some cartilage and is out. Bradford, our catcher, dived back into first base to avoid a pick off throw and dislocated a shoulder. Keith Cooper and Terry Dillingham were in what I thought would be the most serious accident, though, when they ran together in the outfield chasing a fly ball. They left the field under their own power," Cohen said.

After losing 15-0 and 21-4, the Miners host the University of New Mexico Lobos at Dudley Field Friday and Saturday. "We are going to try to get ready for UNM," Cohen said.
