Paul's seminar

JIM PAUL is conducting a seminar for minor league general managers and other baseball front office people . . . Approximately 20 clubs are represented at the three day workshop at the Mesa Inn . . . Bobby Bragan, president of the National Assn., of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors) is attending . . . Bobby has a brother, Jimmy, who is a coach with the Milwaukee Brewers, and a son, Bobby Jr., who is the general manager of the Harlingen team in the Lone Star League, a league that is independent . . . Its clubs don't have any tieup with the majors . . . Bobby Bragan Jr., said three former U.T. El Paso players sent to the Harlingen club on the recommendations of coach Andy Cohen had good seasons . . . They were pitcher Dave Janusch who was 6-5 and had an earned run average of 2.90, pitcher Mike Rima who led the league in saves with eight and infielder Glen Villarreal who joined the club late in the season . . . Add nicknames: "Sam Bam" for Sam Cunningham, run-
