

TRIBE LOOKING FOR SHORTSTOP

Holy Cross Rookie Catches Cohen's Eye in Sox Drills

By LESTER KOELLING

The immediate concern of Andy Cohen, manager of the Indianapolis Indians, is acquiring an experienced shortstop.

"That is our biggest problem," Cohen told The News today from Tampa, Fla., where he has been assisting in the workouts of the Chicago White Sox. "Right now it appears that we may have to go along with a kid named Don Prohovich, who has been looking real good with the White Sox."

Prohovich was signed by the White Sox off the campus of Holy Cross last year and played 70 games with Colorado Springs, batting .284 and hitting 11 homers.

"The youngster doesn't figure to stay with the White Sox," Andy continued, "and we're going to give him a real good look and chance when he joins us at Hollywood." (The Indians have a working agreement with Chicago this season.)

Cohen will leave Tampa tomorrow for Hollywood where the Tribe's training season will open Tuesday with the arrival of pitchers and catchers. The main squad is due to report March 17. Tribe President Ownie Bush already is in Hollywood and Ray Johnston, the club's general manager, left last night for the training site.

"We haven't done much talking with White Sox officials about players," said Cohen, "but I've been making mental notes on what I've seen here (Tampa) and will have a good idea what to accept or reject when players are offered us."

"There's quite a scramble going on for the first base job," continued Andy, "and we're certain to get good help in that position. Right now, it looks like either Jim Marshall or Ron Jackson, and I'd be happy with either."

Marshall is lefthanded all the way and batted .264 at Memphis last season. However, the 6.1 190-pounder batted in 106 runs and connected for 28 homers. Jackson is a righthanded giant, standing 6.7 and weighing 225 pounds. He finished the season with the White Sox last year after batting .304 for Vancouver.

"The best-looking guy in camp is Jim Landis," said Cohen, "but I doubt whether we will see him for some time. He's been hitting better than anyone on the White Sox club and he'll undoubtedly stay at least during the exhibition schedule. I'd like to have him for center field."

Landis, a 6.1 righthanded outfielder, batted only .257 in 90 games for Memphis last season, but he has been so impressive in Tampa workouts that Chicago Manager Al Lopez will let him "play himself off the squad."

Cohen expresses no concern over the pitching and catching prospects which, he says, "looks very encouraging."

"Tom Flanigan has looked especially good," commented Andy, "and so has Barry Latman—he's on our roster but was invited to the White Sox camp. Flanigan is on Chicago's roster, but I think we may get him, and that's all right with me."

Flanigan, a 6.3 southpaw, compiled a 9-5 record at Memphis last season and an earned run average of 3.75. Latman also was at Memphis, posting a 14-14 mark.

TONIGHT'S GAME

Brooklyn (NL) vs. Milwaukee (NL) at Miami, Fla.

TOMORROW'S GAMES

Brooklyn (NL) vs. Milwaukee (NL) at Miami, Fla.

Chicago (NL) vs. Baltimore (AL) at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Cincinnati (NL) vs. Chicago (AL) at Tampa, Fla.

New York (NL) vs. Cleveland (AL) at Phoenix, Ariz.

Philadelphia (NL) vs. Cleveland (AL) at Ft. Myers, Fla.

St. Louis (NL) vs. New York (AL) at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Washington (AL) vs. Boston (AL) at Sarasota, Fla.

Kansas City (AL) vs. Detroit (AL) at Lakeland, Fla.